

Did Police Lure Native Crowd to Massacre?

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Rt. Rev. Ambrose Reeves, Anglican bishop of Johannesburg, said Thursday night the questioning of 100 Negroes wounded at Sharpeville Monday had turned up some "startling statements."

He told foreign reporters that the Negroes all said they had been told by white police before the shooting that a "big white boss" from Pretoria was going to address them at the police station.

The bishop said he was speaking as chairman of a committee of 14 liberal organizations, including groups formed to help non-whites.

Sharpeville was the scene of the heaviest casualties in Monday's rioting. The casualties were caused when white police opened fire on a crowd of 20,000 Negroes gathered at the police station.

Previous reports have said that the firing started after the Negroes besieged the station and began hurling stones. Official estimates put the number of Negroes killed at 66. Several wounded died later.

The bishop said lawyers questioned about 100 of the wounded at Paragwanath Hospital.

He said Negroes began gathering in the township early Monday morning as instructed by Pan-Africanist leaders to protest against carrying identification passes. But white police told them also that a white man was coming to address them outside the police station. The Negroes were cautioned by their leaders against violence. The wounded all said they would not have permitted women and children to go to the police station if they had expected violence.

The first violence flared when a white policeman knocked a Negro down and kicked him. The wounded said the only stones they saw thrown were by children. They said police drawn up in a line put guns to their shoulders. The only warning the Negroes had was from a Negro policeman behind the wire fence enclosing the police station.

He ran forward and shouted: "Run—they are going to shoot you."

As he shouted, police opened fire.

Bishop Reeves said 100 men, 30 women and six children were in the hospital with wounds.

Peace Plan Go-Ahead?

Flies to Prince George To Give Big News

By TERRY HAMMOND

Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston is expected to announce the engineering feasibility of the $600,000,000 Peace River hydro today.

He left Victoria yesterday for Prince George—his briefcase bulging with the long-awaited Peace River feasibility report by B.C. water comptroller A. F. Paget.

PRINCE GEORGE

Observers point out that if the controversial Peace River Power Development Company scheme had failed to stand the scrutiny of provincial engineers and consultants the minister would not have flown to Prince George, the heart of his constituency, to release it.

He has flown there on two previous occasions for major announcements in connection with Rocky Mountain Trench development by the Axel Wenner-Gren interests and Peace River Power Development.

What is considered another strong indication that the engineering proposals for the Peace River have been vindicated during the government analysis of the company's nine-volume plan came in Port Alberni last week when B.C. Energy Board chairman Gordon Shrum strongly espoused

'Goof Balls' Factor In 12 Deaths

VANCOUVER (CP)—City coroner Glen MacDonald said Thursday that alcohol, mixed with 25-cent "goof balls" containing the drug glutethimide, was a factor in the deaths of 12 Indian girls in this area during the last six months.

AFRICA STUNNED BY MEETING BAN

Fear of 'Massive Revolt' Reason for Harsh Measures

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (CP)—Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd moved swiftly Thursday to meet what he told Parliament was a planned "massive revolt" of South Africa's 10,000,000 rigidly segregated native people. (See also Pages 3 and 28.)

The government banned for the next three months all public meetings, except church services, in major centres. The prohibition was announced after police raided offices and homes of native leaders connected with the African National Congress, the Pan-Africanist Congress, and other organizations frowned upon by the government.

DOCUMENTS SEIZED

Documents were seized and some leaders taken into custody for questioning.

The nation was stunned by the ban on public meetings, which went into immediate effect and will extend until June 30. The drastic measure followed the worst black-white violence South Africa has seen in recent years.

MORE THAN 12

Later word said the ban applied to meetings of more than 12 persons but that it would not affect a meeting scheduled by Verwoerd. Nationalist party headquarters said a big political rally set by Verwoerd for Saturday at Meyerton will go on as planned.

Mangaliso Sobukwe, president of the Pan-Africanist Congress, and most other top leaders of this aggressive organization which aims at full rights for Negroes by 1963, already were in custody.

ARMORED CARS

Police in armored cars patrolling Nyanga, near Cape town, reported "things are cooking up."

They said some patrols had been stoned and thousands of natives thronged the streets. Whites have been warned to stay out of the township.

At the trouble spot of Venderbijl Park, south of Johannesburg, white men and women lined up to apply for gun licences.

Firearms have been selling at the rate of 100 a day since Monday's riots in which more than 70 were killed and 200 wounded.

90 NEGROES

In Capetown, about 90 Negroes gathered in front of the main police headquarters and demanded to be arrested because they were not carrying their passes.

Industries in some regions reported absenteeism still was a problem, though a slight back-to-work movement was noted.

The Archbishop of Cape town, Most Rev. Joost de Blank, champion of the Negro people, spoke out Thursday for the first time on the events of last Monday.

While summoning all people of goodwill everywhere to pray for South Africa at this fragile moment in its history, he implored to place on record that until the whole body of discriminatory legislation which weighs so heavily on certain sectors of the population is withdrawn there can be no possibility of a peaceful future for the country.

Bomarc Funds Chopped

SEATTLE (AP) — Funds requested to build Boeing Bomarc interceptor missiles in 1961 have been cut to $50,000,000 from $420,000,000 in view of the shift of the Soviet threat from manned bombers to rockets.

Bomarc missiles are designed to seek out and destroy planes, not ballistic missiles.

Southern Rhodesia

Cool Reception Given Macleod

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (Reuters) — Colonial Secretary Iain Macleod was met with suspicion Thursday as he arrived for a two-week visit to the Rhodesian Federation.

The Rhodesian Herald in an editorial said Macleod comes with the reputation of betraying the whites of Kenya and warned:

"The slightest sign of tipping the whites overboard will find him in the midst of a howling tempest."

A silent crowd of 300 greeted Macleod at the airport.

It was the second cool reception in one day for the 46-year-old colonial secretary, balanced between Negroes seeking self-rule and resentful whites afraid of a "sellout."

White settlers called him a "traitor" at Nairobi airport during a stopover in Kenya on his way to Salisbury.

Macleod's visit to this Central African Federation is scheduled to include talks on a new constitution for Nyasaland and tours of all three territories in the Federation.

The protectorates of Nyasaland and Northern Rhodesia are linked with the self-governing colony of Southern Rhodesia.

Macleod's arrival coincided with the release of 17 Negroes who were given 12-month prison terms during riots a year ago.

Two days ago, police used tear gas and nightsticks to disperse a crowd of stone-throwing Negroes in Nyasaland's southern province.

The B.C. government is expected to give short shrift to a federal offer to loan the province half the cost of Columbia River development at a premium interest rate.

Mr. K Tells France

Germany Growing 'Insolent'

PARIS (UPI) — Premier Nikita Khrushchev said yesterday that West German militarism was growing "insolent" and called for a non-aggression pact between the eastern and western power blocs to ease the threat of war.

Khrushchev was in rare good form as he beat the drums louder than ever for peaceful co-existence and renewed his attacks on German militarism and revenge-seeking to peace.

Khrushchev spoke at a luncheon in the Paris city hall after a two-hour meeting in private with President Charles de Gaulle on such subjects as militarism, closer Soviet-French ties, the May 16 summit conference and France's close ties with West Germany.

Outside the city hall where President Eisenhower told a crowd of 50,000 last September "I love you all," a crowd of nearly the same size massed to meet Khrushchev. Many in the assembly waved red flags, wore hammer and sickle buttons and shouted "Long live Khrushchev!"

WHETHER OR NOT

Confirming the federal offer in Vancouver yesterday, Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston refused to indicate whether or not the government would accept it.

Mr. Williston said last night that while the province had made no outright request for financial assistance the subject of financing the project had been discussed during talks between provincial and federal negotiating teams.

He declined to say whether or not he found the federal offer disappointing but pointed out that if it could be said that the project in any way reflected to the general benefit of Canada then a grant would be in order.

He said it was "quite obvious" that the project would, in part, reflect to the benefit of the nation as a whole.

One of the financial problems discussed with federal officials, Mr. Williston said, concerned the carrying of indebtedness during "non-remunerative phases" of the project.

Essentially, the offer is for a straight loan of from $500,000,000 to $700,000,000 as the province would use the money to build a dam and a power plant.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

UNREST in Asia and Africa? Three white men caused it: The missionary, the political envoy and the salesman.

"The missionary preached the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man, and the people wondered when it was going to be put into practice," said Dr. Hugh Keenleyside, former head of the United Nations technical assistance program.

The political envoy preached "democracy, equality and those other great words we talk about so much and do so little about."

The salesman showed people the wonderful things they could get with money.

People began to realize that "It was not necessarily a rule of nature or a law of God that they must be born in misery and hasten to an early grave."

Now there's a "rising tide of discontent" among the poor masses. People want a better life for themselves or their children.

So Dr. Keenleyside said at a recent public meeting sponsored by the United Nations Association.

But for a lot of people, he added, that vision of a better life is a long way from reality. From one-half to two-thirds of the world's people are sick and near starvation. Most of the sick are suffering from diseases that could be cured or alleviated.

The greatest of all killers, malaria, could be virtually wiped out for the cost of one battleship.

In countries like Canada, New Zealand and Sweden, a man can expect to live 70 years, a woman 75 years. In 30 countries inhabited by half the world's people, anyone older than 35 is living on borrowed time.

Americans have an average income of $2,000 a year. The people of 20 countries have an average income of $50 a year.

The United Nations technical assistance program is one of several plans that are aimed to help needy countries. It includes pilot projects for producing food and manufactured goods; fellowships and scholarships; and the sending of experts and groups of experts to solve urgent problems. Examples...

After the war, Greece was starved for protein food. A United Nations poultry expert set up a demonstration chicken farm in one village. After months that village was producing more chickens and eggs than all the rest of Greece together.

Fast-growing Asiatic fish were shipped to the Caribbean republic of Haiti, planted in ponds. Haiti's fish farms were soon producing abundant crops.

A rolling-mill in Karachi, Pakistan, was tangled in troubles, producing only a trickle of steel. A United Nations expert (Yugoslav by nationality) worked four months to take out the bugs from the production line; stepped up output 54 per cent.

United Nations-organized factories in India, Pakistan, Yugoslavia, Chile and other countries are making penicillin, DDT and other staples of medicine and pest control.

("Pills which cost $6 for 20 pills in this country can be produced—a double handful of them containing I don't know exactly how many—for nine cents. There may be something to be said for living in some of the underdeveloped countries.")

Blindness is common in Egypt. World Health Organization is trying to prevent and treat blindness, while a technical assistance team trains teachers of the blind.

Cairo now has the world's first Arabic Braille press.

The United Nations, the U.S. and the Colombo plan countries together are working to revive a once-fertile valley in Afghanistan that has been a desert since Tamerlane laid waste to it 500 years ago. Thirty thousand families will eventually be able to make a living there.

Four nations that have never been able to agree about anything—Siam, Cambodia, Laos and Viet Nam—are planning to co-operate in a United Nations-inspired program for development of the Mekong River.

Victoria's Col. Gerry Andrews looked over the Mekong Valley, weighed some of the problems, and said the plan could be carried out.

Canada has sent some 400 experts abroad; played host to 400 students under United Nations fellowships. The cost to Canada: $2,000,000 a year. The technical assistance program so far has been just a token effort; a pilot project. Vastly more needs to be done. Is Canada spending too much on it?

"If every adult Canadian gave up just one cocktail or one banana split a month and gave the money to the United Nations instead," observed Dr. Keenleyside, "Canada's contribution could be multiplied by 60."

Big Report Today On Peace Plan

the case for exporting B.C. power to the United States.

Recent statements by Peace River Power indicate that export is considered unlikely that an unsatisfactory plan would have evolved.

Economic feasibility of the project may enter into the report, and some observers believe, may be the source of whatever reservations and qualifications the report contains.

A few are convinced that the report, while generally favorable, will recommend that firm evidence of power marketability be shown before the scheme gets the final blessing.

If this is so, proceedings may come to a more-or-less standstill until the federal government indicates that it will approve export of Canadian power.

And if the B.C. Energy Board tackles Ottawa, as it undoubtedly would if the provincial government sought export approval, it will do so along lines outlined by Dr. Shrum when he addressed the Associated Chambers of Commerce at Port Alberni one week ago.

MAJOR SPEECH

In what was one of his first major power speeches since his appointment to head the energy board, he said that British Columbia has a surplus hydro power potential which, if it is to be developed at all, must be harnessed before it becomes obsolete in the face of economic nuclear power.

This being the case, he continued, B.C. should export whatever surplus hydro power it can generate while there is still a market for it in the United States.

A public hearing would be held at which the economic prospects of the project will be gone into in detail.

COMPREHENSIVE PLAN

The clause states, in part, "the comprehensive plan for the economic development of the Peace River potential shall be approved by the comptroller of water rights within three months of the filing of same, such approval not to be unreasonably withheld."

Next step for the Peace River company after the water comptroller's report would be to apply to the B.C. Public Utilities Commission for a certificate of public convenience and necessity.

Short Shrift For Loan?

market interest rates plus 1/2 of one per cent.

Financial experts say that if B.C. has to accept a loan rather than a grant, the offer is a good one.

"This province can't borrow a billion dollars all by itself, let's face it," one financial officer said.

He pointed out that on the basis of the last federal bond issue the province would be paying about 5 1/2 per cent on the money.

BORROW SHARE

"I would doubt that B.C. could borrow its share under six per cent," he stated.

But he said he could well understand disappointment on the part of the government if they were expecting an outright grant.

Considering the self-liquidating nature of the project, he added, the province could probably borrow an amount similar to that offered by the federal government, but would probably pay a higher interest rate for it.

SAME AS GRANT

Meanwhile, officials at Ottawa yesterday maintained that a loan to B.C. would be the same as a grant because the project itself would provide the funds with which to repay the federal government.

They pointed out that the federal government would have to borrow the amount of the loan at prevailing rates and would tack on the 1/2 of one per cent to cover handling charges.

Highly-placed authorities pointed out that the federal government had not just offered loans to finance such schemes as the South Saskatchewan River dam.

In Saskatchewan the provincial share was $110,000,000 and the federal share $74,000,000.

British Columbia had been expecting the same treatment on Columbia financing, the spokesman said.

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)—A U.S. radiation-study satellite which breezed "almost too smoothly" through its check-out tests plunged to a fiery death Wednesday minutes after it was launched.

Rocket scientist Werner von Braun said the third stage of a four-stage Juno II rocket carrying the 35.3-pound moonlet apparently failed to fire 2,000 miles out.

Loan Will Make It Possible, Says CCF For Commission to Take Over Peace

A federal loan offer for development of the Columbia River now makes it possible for the B.C. Power Commission to take over the Peace River project, Opposition Leader Robert Strachan said last night.

"Now that the federal government is committed to financing the Columbia, B.C. Hydro is in a better position to finance the Peace River project rather than turn it over to private development in the person of Mr. Wenner Gren," he told the Colonist. Deane Finlayson, Progressive Conservative leader, said: "The provincial government should accept the federal government's offer to help finance the Columbia project."

He added that by doing so the credit of B.C. would be relieved to the extent that Ottawa participates.

Liberal leader Ray Perrault said his party had fought for years for the Columbia project.

He said: "There is no doubt the excellent revenue to be derived from turbines on the Canadian side plus reasonable profit from downstream benefits will be capable of amortizing such a loan with ease."

Scholarship Protest

African Protest Urged

OTTAWA (UPI) — University students charged yesterday that current South African racial violence provoked "the same sentiments of revulsion and horror" as the Hungarian massacre of 1956.

The national federation of Canadian university students formally asked the federal government to "give to the South African population the same moral support it has given the Hungarian people and to join the concert of nations of the world in protesting against the present situation."

The NFCUS request, laid before Prime Minister John Diefenbaker, was the latest in a series of demands to the government to condemn the recent violence in South Africa and that country's policy of apartheid.

Diefenbaker has refused thus far to go further than deploring the overall situation which produced the slaying of more than 60 African natives this week.

VANCOUVER (CP) — University of British Columbia's Alma Mater Society said Thursday it will establish a scholarship for one Negro South African student as an active protest against racial policies in that country.

Dave Edgar, president of the society, said the scholarship would provide tuition, travelling and living expenses at UBC for the selected student.

Shooting 'Genocide' Say Reds

LONDON (UPI) — Russia last night charged South Africa with "racial genocide" in the shooting of African anti-pass law demonstrators.

The official news agency Tass, in an "authorized" statement broadcast in English by Moscow Radio and monitored here, said the South African government "systematically ignoring the opinion of the United Nations and the world public, not only carries on the policy of racial oppression, but have now taken up racial genocide."

South African government policy in recent racial riots, in which at least 70 Negroes have been shot by police he said:

"Our ordinary protests are not enough to meet this situation. We must do something creative and constructive to protest the South African government's policies."

Mr. Edgar said also he was communicating with heads of other university student bodies in Canada to urge them to adopt similar protest methods.

Appalling Traffic Record

IN the first two months of this year highway fatality statistics for British Columbia showed an increase of almost exactly 100 per cent over those for the corresponding period last year. In February alone the increase was slightly more than 300 per cent.

What are the causes for such an appalling situation? Around the middle of last year the highway death rate began to show a sharp increase and continued to rise during succeeding months. But this shocking upswing comes in the midwinter months, when the tendency hitherto has been for drivers to take greater care. It is probably without precedent in the province, and baffling as to the causes of it. If this trend continues, British Columbia will soon rank as the most dangerous part of the country, if not of the continent, in which to drive.

Determination of causes of situations such as this is profitable only if it leads to a cure. In the apparent absence of anything which can be dealt with by the passage of a new law the conclusion invited is that many of British Columbia's drivers are a rash, ill-disciplined lot against whom much sterner measures must be taken than anything tried in the past.

The punishment most dreaded by those who drive wildly is forfeiture of the privilege of holding a licence. That argument is amply supported by the lengths to which drivers convicted of offences against the highway code will go to wheedle the magistrates into allowing them to keep their licences, or at any rate to drive for "business purposes."

In this province and in Canada as a whole the practice is to cancel licences for relatively short periods—three months, six months or, in serious cases, perhaps a year. In Great Britain it is not uncommon for licences to be suspended for five or ten years or to be revoked for life. Many observers of the fast deteriorating traffic record of B.C. are led to the conclusion that the only effective weapon against negligence at the wheel is the one which removes dangerous drivers from the roads for long periods. And to be fully effective a policy of cancelling licences should be accompanied by one of mandatory jail sentences on all who continue to drive in defiance of suspension orders.

More Seeking Work

NATIONAL unemployment in Canada rose by 51,000 persons in the month ending February 20, more or less in line with a seasonal trend which reaches its peak in March. At the same time there were 5,663,000 individuals on the working force of the nation, and 800,000 others registered as looking for jobs, according to official sources at Ottawa. Registered unemployed at the same date numbered 555,000, compared with the postwar peak of 587,000 in 1958. In one sense the figures do not tell the story. They afford an indication only, and they do not convey the different reasons for their related results.

It is obvious that what is happening across Canada is that the number of workers at all callings is going up yearly, with the addition of fresh contingents of young people seeking first employment. That would account for the steady gain in the number of those actually at work. Added to that is the degree to which certain categories of individuals who formerly did not work or else took only occasional employment now accept employment as a vocation. There are natural and economic reasons for that, as young children reach school ages and a second income in the home becomes possible. A number of those registering for work in February probably could be included in this category.

Apart from seasonal shutting down of work in some lines and new additions to the working force, both tending to create a temporary hump in unemployment rosters, there is also the factor of a basic change in the industrial system of the country. Automation is coming into wider use steadily. Workers displaced in the process should not be long without the opportunity of working, but also they may have to be retrained. It is here that Canada may need to resort to more vigorous methods of training; both to re-employ the displaced and also to take care of the growing working force of a fast-growing population.

Seen against this perspective, the present winter is by no means an unusual one. Employment and unemployment rosters certainly do not balance, but when at this part of the year have they ever done so? For the long pull Canada has some assurance of an expanding working force, with whatever temporary disabilities may have to be overcome along the way.

A New Angle of Thought

MAJOR-General E. L. M. Burns, the former UN military chief in the Middle East and Canada's spokesman at the disarmament talks in Geneva, voiced an intriguing thought this week at the conference table. What would happen, he asked, if the great powers disarmed and then found that smaller countries did not follow their example?

The news report didn't say how this idea was received, but it does introduce a new angle to the subject. Much grandiose talk is heard about the possibility of total disarmament—not at all likely—but assuming that the major powers did strip themselves of the bone, it would be an interesting reversal of things if the only armed forces left belonged to the minor nations.

This would be a great blow to the dignity and prestige of the VIP powers. For all the influence that character and reputation beget the edge still goes to the nation with the biggest battalions, as it were. Military strength speaks the loudest even at a peace conference. Were the tables turned and weapon weight vested in what may currently be regarded as lesser nations the larger powers would certainly have food for thought.

Even in an age dominated by major nations the smaller ones occasionally thumb their noses at their bigger brothers, and get away with it because glibboat diplomacy is out of favor and international discipline is more difficult to enforce. In this respect the lesser powers never had it so good.

What would happen to their egos were they armed nations and the once mighty powers reduced to skeletal strength is perhaps an academic question. It is one at least that has crossed General Burns' mind, and he is a man who has had experience with the mounting ambitions of smaller powers. Disarmament, he has made apparent, could invite a very mixed problem.

Long Record of Clashes

By JOSEPH MACSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

THE outbreak in South Africa may not be the beginning of a black revolt as some observers say, but it is more ominous than any that have occurred since the governing Nationalist Party started its strict program of apartheid racial separation 12 years ago.

In the last four years, there have been several riots but they lacked the dignity and purpose—and certainly the casualty rate—of the current drive which strikes at a basic tenet of apartheid, the pass system of identity cards.

Protesting that the pass system was being extended instead of eased, the natives were staggered by the government's use of jet planes, armored cars, machine-guns and rifles to quell their demonstrations.

But from the standpoint of Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd's overall apartheid policy, there's nothing capricious or inconsistent about the pass regulations and their enforcement.

They are needed to nail down Verwoerd's plan to provide South Africa's Negro population of about 10,000,000 with five territories, "bantustans," which will be their legal and political homes.

Outside these reserves the natives would have no political rights they have none now, but insistently demand them—and they would be treated as foreigners, while at the same time being available as a labor force.

The government and the white population also fear that without the pass system, which had its origin in 1907, crime would result from thousands of Negroes flooding already-overcrowded cities and townships.

Only in recent years have women been brought under the identity card regulations, and women were the leading participants in riots and demonstrations in the last 18 months.

Nine policemen—four whites and five Negroes—were killed in a dispute over illicit liquor stills last January at Cato Manor, near Durban. Four were killed at the same place last June in rioting blamed by the government on sellers of bootleg liquor who resented competing municipal beerhalls.

Nearly 1,000 Negro women were taken into custody in Johannesburg in October, 1958, after marching in protest of the passes.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

AS the Daily Express said, all babies look like babies, which is not really strange. Churchill once said they all look like him, and that is not such a far-fetched notion either if you recall his cherubic countenance.

Babies all get names too and have their picture taken, although if they are not royal babies they do not enjoy quite the same publicity as the infant who looked out from Colonist pages this week. He doesn't know it, poor lad, but he is doomed to face ten thousand cameras yet to come, and many more.

One could envisage a more delightful prospect, but with a big brother to set the example doubtless he will get used to it. Royalty faces the camera nowadays with more aplomb than once was the case.

Varying deductions are being drawn from the names bestowed on this new scion of the House of Windsor. His first name, Andrew, is attributed to his Stuart heritage and thus as a compliment to his aunt's birthplace. The plain fact seems to be that this given name derives from one of his grandfathers. This is a prosaic if also a regal custom, to call children after older relatives. First names do not mean as much in royal circles as they might in others, however, and there is little likelihood that supposing him one day to ascend the throne he would be titled King Andrew.

Royal children are provided with alternatives, and one thing inviting interest about the four given names allotted to this baby prince is that they are quite ordinary names. Christian is perhaps a trifle less common but Andrews, Alberts and Edwards are to be found in a million lesser households.

Added verity is thus given to the thesis that the blood royal is well dispersed and that practically everybody is linked by genealogy to the reigning house. At any rate royal names have not varied widely at any time from those popular among the commonalty.

Regal nomenclature is obviously not susceptible to the moods which inflict on some innocent children names like Alamein, V.S. Prosperity, and other parental fads and foibles. I once heard of a boy saddled with the Christian names Robinson Crusoe Christopher Columbus, which seems a most unchristian liability for any child.

The new prince is like his sister and brother in having four names from which to choose, the one that sounds best, except that like all small mortals this is generally decided for him as he grows up. Few individuals have the hardihood to drop the favorite name used by their families, even if they don't like it.

It was rather surprising to learn that unlike his children Prince Philip has only one given name, a circumstance unusual to the blood royal but one which heartens this writer. He has always felt cheated by having registered warrant for but a single Christian name, and it is comforting to have such eminent company in this respect—I suppose one given name is as good as four, really, but if a person is not a prince he cannot flaunt this restriction of bestowal with quite the same distinction.

Returning to where we started, the little Prince Andrew is said to look most like his mother, which seems fair enough. Mothers have the most to do with babies anyway.

Bureaucracy Triumphs over Sense

By RICHARD L. THOMAS

THIS is the story of what happens in enlightened Britain when bureaucracy puts its dead hand into the works. You may remember that a prominent gentleman of the City of London, a director of one of our largest banks and insurance companies and a future lord mayor, was fined £20,000 for transferring £17,870 of his own money to the Principality of Monaco.

Not very long ago a person was fined £10 for driving a nail into the head of a dog, a woman was fined £5 for cruelty to a child and a motorist who knocked a cyclist from his machine and put him in hospital for two months was fined £20. One could enumerate a catalogue of offences and penalties which do not seem to bear the remotest resemblance to punishments fitting the crime. It would seem that an offence against bureaucratic illegality is vastly more important than offences against persons or moral codes.

Mr. Anthony Clifton-Brown, the gentleman concerned, was allowed six months in which to pay his fine.

The important thing to remember is that here in Britain we have it on the authority of the prime minister that "we have never had it so good."

If Mr. Clifton-Brown had asked 70 friends to take £250 to Monaco there would have been little, if anything, the law could have done about it. At the moment anyone in Britain over the age of 21 is allowed to take £250 out of the country without authority. Technically it is a "travel allowance."

You may spend it on wine, women and song, fast living and gambling in the Casino at Monaco—but you must not invest it without permission of the Bank of England.

If, in fact, Mr. Clifton-Brown's friends had deposited their £250 in a bank at Monaco instead of with the banker at the Casino it is unlikely that anyone would have heard anything about it, still less that anyone would have done anything about it. But Mr. Clifton-Brown sent his own £17,870 by one person instead of 70.

For his action he has received the grateful thanks of the Principality of Monaco. He went to the rescue of a small bank at a time when it was about to suspend payment. His assistance kept the bank solvent and prevented many small depositors from losing their money, and by keeping his word he maintained Britain's reputation for integrity.

But he has offended against a wartime law which said that currency must not be sent abroad (except in sums of £250 or less) without permission of the government controlled Bank of England and as the result he faces possible financial ruin. Even if his £17,870 is safe his good deed will still cost him £20,000. If it is not safe he will have lost £37,870. As the £17,870 was obtained on overdraft it would seem that when that is paid off the total bill may well be £60,000 by the time the legal costs have been paid. That is the equivalent of about $160,000.

No case of recent times has thrown more boldly into relief the effect of bureaucracy at work. There is no moral issue, no one except Mr. Clifton-Brown has suffered and undoubtedly a number of people have commendably benefited in Monaco. Indeed it was admitted that if Mr. Clifton-Brown had been anything but completely candid it is exceedingly unlikely that anyone would have known anything about it. If anyone is entitled to argue that honesty is not the best policy it is the gentleman concerned.

In addition to the penalty inflicted by the law he has had to resign his bank directorship and no doubt other directorships will also be surrendered. It is suggested that this will mean a loss of income of possibly $30,000 a year—and all because some Whitehall wizard declared that it is quite all right for 70 people to take out $250 a head but quite wrong that one person should take out nearly £18,000.

In fact of course it is a law which is evaded, ignored and by-passed every day of the week—mainly because it has no moral acceptance. It is a bad law especially for a nation which claims to be the financial centre of the world. It is no more than a survival from the days when it had some moral force, when the nation could be undermined in the war years by the export of currency.

Today it represents the tragedy of bureaucrats unwilling to surrender power, and demanding penalties wholly out of proportion to the nominal offence.

For Foreign Students

(From The Edmonton Journal)

THE education of foreign students in Canada was discussed in the House of Commons recently. Questioned by members, External Affairs Minister Green made two points of particular importance.

He said the program by which young scholars, the future leaders of under-developed countries, are invited to Canada for study was one of the most successful forms of Canadian aid.

In rejecting a Liberal member's suggestion that the West could obtain more propaganda advantage out of its foreign aid, as the Communists do, the minister said: "We don't plan to bring these young persons to Canada and send them back as political emissaries." Canada, he added, gives its aid from the heart and makes genuine friends in the process.

The Liberal questioner may not have been thinking of indoctrination; but, in any event, Mr. Green's view of the approach that is proper should find ready assent in this country. We must trust that foreign students will come to appreciate the values of our way of life and will become our friends.

Whether we are doing as much as we ought to do in inviting foreign students to our universities is an open question. It is obvious that since we are engaged in a struggle for men's minds, we must do just as much as we possibly can in this field. In coldly realistic terms, it is a positive form of defence.

That Russia is losing few opportunities is evident from the recent announcement that a university for Asian, African and Latin American students will be opened in Moscow this year. It will offer specialized education of four to eight years with all expenses paid. The first-year enrolment will be 500 students. That number eventually will be increased to 3,000 or more.

A country of Canada's economic size cannot afford an enterprise of that extent; nor is it necessarily a good idea. It would seem better to have foreign students mix with Canadians at various universities. However, the special university is significant of the great importance which Communist Russia attaches to aid for foreign students.

King Canute and the Tide

(From The Printed Word)

AN AMUSING, if not particularly fruitful, literary recreation is to count the number of references one runs across to the legend of King Canute and the tide, and then to count the number of times it is alluded to correctly.

It is safe to say that everyone who has been exposed to the least bit of English history has been taught how Canute, in order to rebuke the flattery of his courtiers, had his chair moved to the seashore when the tide was coming in and unsuccessfully commanded it to move back.

In a half-dozen or so recent novels, some English, some American, one character or another has brought up the legend as an illustration of a man's attempting the impossible, but always with the implication that poor old Canute had been foolish enough to imagine that the tide would obey him.

Canute was one of the ablest of the many foreign monarchs who have ruled England, and, like many of them, became a true Englishman, so much so that he became unpopular in his other kingdom, Denmark.

The misapplication of the tide story is particularly unfair to his memory, for such accounts of his reign as survive indicate that he was much too astute a politician to attempt the impossible.

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

THERE are really some very strange people in the world. The beatniks are quite normal compared to some.

Yesterday, when the bus stopped at an uptown intersection and passengers got off at the rear exit, a well-dressed man in his forties slipped skilfully aboard as the last passenger stepped off.

The bus driver was busy accepting the 15-cent fares of the passengers boarding up front.

With the utmost composure, the man who had sneaked aboard at the rear door took a seat among us at the back and looked around at us without the least concern. We were staring at him with expressions of indignation and unbecoming contempt. If he had been a ragged waif I suppose we would have smiled at him in compassion. But he was quite obviously a man with plenty of nickels in his pocket. His shoes had a twenty-five-cent shine. I would bet his tie cost $5.

When the driver had attended to all his boarding passengers and closed his door, he got up and came back. He motioned to the sneak.

"Put your fare in the box," he said firmly.

The man hurried forward and put his 45 cents into the box.

"It's okay," said the driver to us, tapping his head. "He does it all the time. Always gets on at the same place. Harmless; just a little batty in this one respect."

Blooms by Thousands

Bouquets of Spring Shared with Shut-Ins

Hundreds of dozens of spring flowers from Greater Victoria gardens and flower farms were distributed yesterday through the Colonist's Share the Flowers plan.

Mainly daffodils were donated — many from commercial growers — but forsythia, plum blossoms and violets were also among the blooms.

Volunteer drivers collected the flowers yesterday morning, took them to the Colonist's downtown office on Broad Street. Then Colonist trucks delivered them to Royal Jubilee, St. Joseph's, Veterans' and the Chinese hospitals.

Another appeal for flowers to brighten Greater Victoria hospitals will be held next week. Full details will be published Sunday morning.

Donors of flowers included:

Mrs. Percy B. Scurrell, 19 King George Terrace; Mrs. G. L. Lloyd, 388 King George Terrace; Mrs. O. M. Jones, 599 Island Road; Mrs. H. G. Ellis, 843 Newport Avenue; Mrs. C. A. ## Another Case At Burns Lake prison walls yesterday, released their captives and surrendered.

Both finally accepted a written agreement signed by Tennessee's commissioner of corrections and other officials guaranteeing "on solemn oath" new legal appeals. It promised no reprisals or punishment in solitary confinement in return for ending the siege without bloodshed.

One of the convicts, psychopathic kidnapper Charles Raymond Farra, held out on the agreement for four tense hours after his partner, Robert Rivera, agreed to it. Farra, once classified as criminally insane, had vowed "I came in here to die, and I'm going to die." Rivera pleaded with him to accept and at last he did.

Collapse of the siege, centered in a deputy warden's office facing on the central prison compound, followed a full day and night of threats by the convicts to shoot the hostages — among them three women.

In late afternoon, 24½ hours after the convicts seized the hostages and holed up in the porticoed office — with sandwiches, water, coffee and cigarettes — the end came.

The hostages walked out first, in groups — seven men first, then another seven men, assistant deputy warden Carl Burns, Rivera, another hostage and a lawyer carrying the convicts' smuggled pistols by the barrels — the three women, and finally Farra, smoking a cigaret, stopped once in his walk across the compound and spat on the ground.

Neck-Craning Plasterer Admires Empress Ceiling

"Look up here," Harry Pierson said in the Empress Hotel lobby yesterday. "Just look at that ceiling."

Then he walked quickly into the writing room. "And just look at that," he said. "Have you ever seen work like that?" He spent the next few minutes walking through the hotel, looking upwards like a flying saucer spotter, with his head tilted back.

Mr. Pierson, Aldergrove

Manor, Wash., is an executive of Howard Rose Industries, a Portland firm. He is one of 300 men connected with plastering attending the annual convention of the Northwest Plaster Bureau, Inc., in Victoria.

There are two professions which seem to fall in attracting young blood, Mr. Pierson said — cooking at the chef level and plastering.

There are still some old craftsmen about who can do the intricate, ornate work to be seen in the Empress, Mr. Pierson said, but not many apprentices are learning the trade.

The convention continues today with a half-day program and ends tomorrow with a 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. schedule.

B.C. Power, U.K. Firm Linked

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

A new engineering firm which will link more closely the B.C. Power Corporation and one of England's largest electrical engineering and construction firms, has been announced.

It is International Power and Engineering Consultants Ltd., in which B.C. Power and Balfour, Beatty and Co. Ltd., of London, England, will have 50 per cent interest.

The new company is an offshoot of Balfour Beatty and B.C. Power Consultants Ltd., formed in 1958 to undertake detailed engineering work on the Peace River hydro project.

Sir Andrew MacTaggart, who was chairman of the old company, will continue as chairman of International, and he will have two top men of B.C. Power as aides. A. E. Grauer, president of B.C. Power, will be deputy chairman and Tom Ingledew, a vice-president of B.C. Power, will be president.

Other directors will be Sir Thomas Foy, K. H. Kidd, R. H. McGill, W. I. O'Hara, Henry W. Smith and Jack H. Steele.

Sir Andrew MacTaggart is also chairman of Peace River Power Development Co. Ltd., as well as chairman of Balfour Beatty Power Securities Ltd.

Besides providing a closer link between the top men of the Canadian and British companies, the new firm will have a title of less local scope than the old, and it is stated that the intention is to seek business not only in B.C. and Canada but in other parts of the world as well.

The main interest, however, is the projected Peace River development in which both

Canada and the Mutual Funds Management Corporation Ltd. By the deal, the Montreal-based insurance company has acquired 30 per cent interest in the business of the Vancouver-headquartered mutual company, thus setting up a working agreement between the two ideologies.

National Life has about $600,000,000 of business in force and of this over $200,000,000 is in the group pension fund.

Mutual Funds Income Fund and its Bond Fund have total assets of over $24,000,000.

The partnership is described by A. K. G. Reid, president of Mutual Funds Ltd., as being the first time of a team operation comprising a firm of investment analysts, a life insurance company and a mutual funds administrative company.

The principals of this new partnership have long recognized that periodic savings plans based on equity investment and permanent life insurance plans are complementary to each other.

H. R. Lawson, president of National Life becomes a governor of Mutual Funds Management, while Mr. Reid is expected to join National Life board at its next meeting.

Policy Attack Civil Defence

OTTAWA (CP)—Maj. Gen. Matthew Penhale, director of the Civil Defence College at Arnprior, Ont., has been ticked off by the government for an article on civil defence he wrote last year in the RCAF Staff College Journal, Health Minister Monteith said Thursday.

Replying to questions by Paul Martin (L. Essex East) in the Commons estimates committee, Mr. Monteith said "it has been made clear to General Penhale" that it is not appropriate for civil servants to discuss policy matters in a public article.

ILL-ADVISED

He thought the article was "very ill-advised." Mr. Martin, former Liberal health minister, had asked Mr. Monteith whether he had seen the article, in which Gen. Penhale said civil defence plans seemed to lack a "positive degree of leadership and guidance."

EVACUATION IMPOSSIBLE

Outlining civil defence duties and training programs, Defence Minister Peakes said it now is realized that wholesale evacuation of cities in cases of nuclear attack has become "practically impossible" with missiles forming a main threat. With manned bombers, a city might get a three-hour warning of impending attack.

NO CHANCE

With missiles the warning time would be about 15 minutes. There was no chance to evacuate a large city in this time period.

The best thing people could do was to sit tight.

Nerve Gas? Not Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence Minister Peakes said Thursday that no nerve gas is produced at the Suffield experimental station of the defence research board.

Ratepayers Split Over Shop Centre

Cadboro Bay Ratepayers' Association split into two factions last night when members discussed two of three shopping centres planned for the district.

King Realty of Victoria, representing a number of persons owning land in the area bounded by Cadboro Bay, Penrhyn and Maynard Streets, plans a $450,000 to $550,000 shopping centre.

Gilbert Williams and Louis Holker, Cadboro Bay merchants, plan a smaller centre between Cadboro Bay Road, Penrhyn, Sinclair and Maynard Park.

The third planned centre, in the name of Dr. Malcolm I. MacKay, 1586 Sonria Place, would be built on land behind existing shops in Cadboro Bay. Applications to have the three areas of land rezoned from residential to commercial use will be considered soon by Saanich council. Only one application will be granted.

Milton King, of King Realty, and Mr. Williams and Mr. Holker were present at the ratepayers' association meeting. Dr. MacKay was not represented.

A number of the members present at the meeting own land in the area included in the King Realty plan.

The meeting appeared to ignore Dr. MacKay's application and split between the other two.

After hearing the representatives speak on their proposals, members voted 27-25 in favor of having a shopping centre built in the area, but refused to vote on which plan they favored.

They Say It's Easy to See Difference in Gee, Whee!

WASHINGTON (AP)—The trademark trial and appeal board Thursday disclosed one of its more scholarly decisions: An analysis of the difference between whee! and gee.

The proceedings began when Armour and Company, the maker of a household cleanser called Gee, tried to prevent Texize Chemicals Inc. from getting a trademark for a liquid laundry detergent called Whee!

Since the appeal board found that the two products are alike chemically, it said "the only question for determination is whether Whee! so resembles Gee as to be likely to cause confusion in trade."

It continued: "Whee! and Gee are distinguishable in both sound and appearance; and while they are both exclamatory slang expressions, they have distinctly different meanings. Whee! being used to express delight and Gee being an expression of surprise."

"It is concluded that the differences between the marks of the parties are such as to obviate any reasonable likelihood of confusion or mistake or deception of purchasers."

The Christmas tree lighted with candles is said to have been introduced into Christmas customs by Martin Luther, who died in 1546.

The board denied Armour's request that it reject the Whee! trademark.

Ottawa Gets Blame In Uranium Issue

TORONTO (UPI)—A full-scale debate on Elliot Lake opened in the Ontario legislature yesterday with the Liberal party and to some extent the Conservative government, pushing the blame for the plight of the uranium community on the federal government.

The debate, on a Liberal resolution that the Ontario legislature petition the federal government to locate at Elliot Lake the uranium research centre which is scheduled for Manitoba, gave opposition members a long-awaited opportunity to debate the issue.

CCF leader Donald MacDonald, who wound up the first half of the debate, said, "so far this afternoon we have had a maximum of words and promises and a minimum of proposals. The longer we listen the clearer it becomes that this government has no policy."

He described Energy Resources Minister Robert Macaulay's lengthy explanation of the uranium picture as "an academic dissertation suitable to the University of Toronto."

Liberal leader John Wintermeyer read official letters tabled in the House of Commons this week which disclosed the Canadian government had sent only one official communique to Washington regarding uranium contracts on which the U.S. government decided not to pick up further options.

PARIS—Nikita Khrushchev has given high praise to a White Russian prince.

The Russian nobleman is Prince Konstantin Andronikov, 44, official interpreter of the French foreign ministry.

"He's the only capitalist capable of translating me faithfully," the Soviet leader is reported by Paris newspapers as saying.

On his arrival at Orly Airport Wednesday, Khrushchev pushed aside his own interpreter, Oleg Troyanovsky, and let Prince Andronikov do the job.

MONTREAL—Jacques Soustelle, fired from the French cabinet because of policy clashes with President De Gaulle, doubts Nikita Khrushchev's current visit to France will produce positive results. "This is just another in a series of pre-summit conferences among the heads of states," he said.

VANCOUVER—J. Everett Brown, deputy minister of municipal affairs, told a citizens' committee that the department will inquire into charges that certain members of Richmond council have used their offices for personal gain and to exert monopoly control.

LONDON—Conrad Hilton and British millionaire Charles Clore signed contracts for a new $16,800,000 hotel on Park Lane to be known as the London Hilton. It will be 27 storeys high—the tallest hotel in London.

Wiring Job Admitted Constable Tells Court

An RCMP constable testified in Assize Court yesterday that marina operator Herbert Murray Stockall admitted he had installed wiring which the Crown alleges was faulty and caused the death of a Victoria skindiver.

Stockall, a director of Shoal Harbor Marine Services Ltd., Sidney, pleaded not guilty to a charge of criminal negligence in the death last July 19 of Richard Henry Willoughby, 27, 1837 Crescent. Defence counsel Gerald A. Lauder entered a similar plea on behalf of the company.

Const. W. W. Kittle of Sidney RCMP detachment told of being called to the marina about 1:25 p.m. July 19, where he was told there had been a fatal accident.

"I asked the accused who had done the wiring... and he said he had done it," the officer testified. "I asked if he got a permit for the work and he said he had not."

Crown prosecutor Alan Macfarlane told an all-male jury

when the trial opened yesterday morning the Crown case against the accused and his company rested on the fact Stockall "did certain (electrical) wiring" on the marina floats and the Crown would show the wiring was "dangerous" because it was "improperly done."

The officer told court when he arrived at the marina he took a statement from the accused in which Stockall said two electrical inspectors had ordered a complete rewiring job more than 12 months before.

The job of rewiring, the accused told Const. Kittle, had continued "off and on" since the spring of 1958. The section of the floats where the fatal mishap occurred had been rewired by Stockall the previous fall, the officer testified.

Under cross-examination, Const. Kittle testified the accused also said in his statement that at on time did he know the electrical conduit was "hot" and no one so informed him.

It was only after the mishap, according to Stockall's statement, that the accused saw two ground wires were not attached to the conduit and a clamp was missing.

Dr. Garth Leonard Walther, assistant pathologist at St. Joseph's Hospital, reported on the outcome of a post-mortem and said his findings didn't indicate drowning as the cause of death.

Dr. C. H. Hemmings, who was called to the marina shortly after 10 a.m. July 19, was asked by the prosecutor what would be the probable effects of 110 volts of electricity passing through the body of a man immersed in water.

"I would think there would be a strong possibility the man would be electrocuted," said Dr. Hemmings.

Later, the jury was sent out of the courtroom at the request of the defence. Mr. Justice Verchere heard arguments by counsel on admissibility of certain evidence. The trial within a trial will resume at 10 a.m. today.

Lower Grilse Limit, No 'Mooching' Sought

By JIM TANG

Reduction of the limit on immature salmon (grilse) from eight fish a day to four and a ban on the method of catching salmon commonly referred to as "mooching" is being sought by the Lower Island Amalgamated Sportsmen's Association.

At a regular meeting where conservation of spring and coho salmon was the main topic, delegates from the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers Association, Esquimalt Anglers Association, Cowichan Bay Salmon Club, Royal Canadian Navy Anglers Association, Vancouver Island Rangers and Victoria Snobirds unanimously endorsed the above recommendations.

The LIASA will also press for stricter enforcement of fishing regulations and the banning "of the export of canned (or bottled) salmon other than by commercial enterprises."

"Our salmon situation is getting serious," an association spokesman said, "and unless something is done in the interests of conservation at once it won't be long before our valuable sports and commercial fishing industries will be damaged almost beyond repair."

Dick James, president of the VSIAA, produced Department of Fisheries figures which showed that last year 52 per cent of all salmon taken by sports fishermen were grilse, as compared to 44 per cent in 1953.

"Actually," James said, "I am inclined to believe that the percentage is even greater than that and am convinced that a slice in our present limits for grilse would be a major step in conservation—if the limits are enforced."

Some delegates were in favor of a complete ban on the fishing of grilse. But it was felt that because it would be impossible to avoid hooking the young salmon while fishing for springs and coho, and that a big percentage would die in any event if returned to the sea, that the best method of conservation would be a reduced limit.

Accordingly, it was decided to write to the Department of Fisheries recommending a sports fishing limit of four fish a day—either four salmon, four grilse or four in the aggregate. In the same letter will be the recommendation for the ban on mooching.

While many delegates shared the growing resentment against mooching because this method of fishing has made it almost impossible for trollers to fish in such areas as Cowichan Bay, the protest against mooching is based on the charge that it is wasteful.

"Mooching," a delegate charged, "is not only a deadly way of fishing for spawning salmon but probably kills at least twice as many fish as are hooked because of the fact that the salmon swallows the hook and light leaders are needed for the best success.

This results in many lost fish, few, if any, of which survive because hooks are left below the gill rakers."

The association will ask that mooching be barred within one mile of any river used for spawning by either spring or coho salmon.

Strong sentiment was also expressed against the amount of canning or bottling being done by visiting anglers from the United States. It was reported large numbers of American cruisers are equipped to can or bottle salmon and that many are spending weeks in choice fishing areas, bottling or canning hundreds of pounds of salmon to be taken back to the U.S.

"This is one practice which should be stopped in the interests of conservation," James said. "We realize the tourist value of our sports fishing and we welcome the visiting angler but it has become a case of too many getting too much for nothing."

Delegates also felt that far too much leniency was being shown to the "part-timers" who take out commercial fishing licences either to be able to avoid limits imposed on sports fishermen or to augment income.

It was pointed out that it was evident that some holders of commercial licences "were unaware that anyone fishing from a boat with the holder of a commercial licence must also be licensed. And it was charged that many holders of commercial licences displayed their licence number only when it suited them."

This brought another recommendation to the department of fisheries—that licencees display their licence numbers at all times regardless of the size of their boat and that the numbers be painted distinctly.

A letter will also be written to the United Fishermen and Allied Workers requesting their stand on commercial licences.

Discussed, but shelved for a week, were additional launching ramps and access to the Albert Head, William Head and McKenzie Bay areas. The LIASA plans a campaign for a useable road to McKenzie Bay and the installation, in the near future, of a launching ramp there.

Supreme Test on Saturday

Supreme test for defensive members of Victoria Evcoes will come Saturday afternoon against high-scoring Vancouver Firefighters. Teams meet in a Province Cup semi-final match at Royal

Habs Edge Ailing Hawks, 4-3; Miss Many Good Chances

MONTREAL — Montreal's favored Canadiens, missing on many of their better scoring chances but facing a team weakened by injuries and illness, last night took the lead in their Stanley Cup semi-final against Chicago Black Hawks by winning the first game, 4-3. A Forum crowd of 14,193 fans watched as the Jean Beliveau-Marcel Bonin-Bernie Geoffrion line led Canadiens to a win which should have been accomplished easier than it was by figuring in three goals.

Hawks were forced to start play without National Hockey League scoring champion Bobby Hull and Stan Mikita, ace rookie centre. And they lost forwards Eric Nesterenko and Ted Sigafoos for the balance of the game during third-period action.

IN HOSPITAL
Mikita was sidelined by a broken cheekbone suffered in an NHL game Saturday night while Hull was unexpectedly lost when he had to go to hospital for treatment of a strep throat. Nesterenko and Sloan both needed stitching after they collided while trying to clear the puck from their own zone.

Under the circumstances, understandably, Montreal coach Toe Blake was not quite satisfied.

"I don't think we played one of our good games," he said in the dressing room. "We can do better than that but so can they, and we'll have to pick up if we want to stay ahead."

Blake agreed with general manager Frank Selke that his club was too cautious and too nervous but couldn't understand why.

"Didn't jell," he commented. "Something just didn't jell out there."

Second game is scheduled for Montreal Saturday night. The series then shifts to Chicago for two games.

Chicago Goal: Hal, defence: Pilze, Vasko, St. Laurent, Evans, Arsenault, Lindsay, Sloan, Murphy, Skov, Nesterenko, Wharram, N. Johnson, E. Balfour, M. Balfour, Litzenberger, Hay.

Montreal Goal: Pointe, defence: Harvey, Langlois, T. Johnson, Turner, Talbot, forwards: Beliveau, Bonin, Geoffrion, Backstrom, Hicke, M. Richard, H. Richard, Moore, Provost, Pronovost, Goyette, Marshall.

FIRST PERIOD
1. Montreal, Beliveau (Geoffrion, Bonin) 11:05.

SECOND PERIOD
2. Montreal, Pronovost (Goyette) 18:04.
3. Chicago, M. Balfour (Hay, Litzenberger) 18:15.
Penalties: Evans 3:00, T. Johnson 7:00, Pointe 13:00, Litzenberger 19:25.

THIRD PERIOD
4. Montreal, Geoffrion (Beliveau) 19:32.
5. Chicago, Lindsay (Wharram) 18:15.
Penalties: Langlois 3:41, Evans 8:10, Talbot 13:31.

Final

Courtenay School Club Loses Out in Overtime

VANCOUVER—Missed foul shots told the tale Thursday night as Courtenay Towhees tumbled from the unbeaten ranks in the B.C. high school basketball tournament, victims of a stunning overtime upset. Towhees, previous tournament favorites, were eliminated from championship play Wednesday.

The anticipated Courtenay-Magee battle drew 4,000 fans to University of British Columbia War Memorial Gym. The huge crowd witnessed one of the most exciting games in tournament history.

HOCKEY SCORES
NORTHERN ONTARIO SENIOR: North York 4, Timmins 3 (Best-of-seven series tied 2-2).
INTERNATIONAL LEAGUE: Louisville 4, Port Wayne 0 (Best-of-seven series tied 1-1).
WESTERN ALAN CUP: Trail 5, Kelowna 4 (Kelowna leads best-of-seven series 2-1).
WESTERN MEMORIAL CUP: Flin Flon 3, Edmonton 1 (First game best-of-seven series).

BASEBALL: INTERMEDIATE
Dauphin 5, Lacombe 1 (First game best-of-five series).

ALBERTA INTERMEDIATE A
Calmar 3, Calgary 2 (Calmar leads best-of-seven series 2-1).

Just 39 seconds from time, Courtenay's Gordon Betcher was fouled and received two free shots. He missed both and the teams went into overtime. The first overtime ended in a 45-45 tie when Betcher sank a jump shot with 1:02 remaining.

With four seconds left, Courtenay guard Dave Chapman was fouled. But he also missed the ensuing shot.

Magee finally won the pressure-bound game early in the sudden-death second overtime. Wally Pettigrew sank the winning points with a jump shot, his only basket of the game.

TRAILED AT HALF
Courtenay had led 12-8 after the first quarter but trailed 20-18 at the half. Magee held a 32-28 lead entering the final quarter.

Meanwhile, Victoria High Totems reached the semi-finals of the consolation round by dumping Chilliwack 16-21 while Alberni District Chiefs edged Oak Bay 18-15.

The loss eliminated Oak Bay from further competition while Alberni advanced to the consolation semi-finals.

NINE STRAIGHT
Oak Bay trailed 43-35 in the final quarter before Barry Entwistle scored nine straight foul shots in a losing effort as Alberni just managed to get home ahead.

Semi-finals tonight see Vancouver College playing Gladstone at 7:45 and Prince Rupert meeting Magee at 9 p.m.

Richardson RCN Champ
OTTAWA, (CP)—Norm Richardson's Victoria rink breezed through the Navy's annual "foundry" bonspiel and defeated and took the RCN's curling crown Thursday.

The Victoria quartet defeated an Ottawa rink skipped by Ches Hartman 11-5 in the final.

Navy Rally Stops Roads, Forces Tie
Navy came up with a strong second-half rally Thursday to edge Royal Roads 11-8 and gain a share of the runner-up position in the Victoria Rugby Union's second division.

Trailing 8-3 at halftime of the game played at Royal Roads, Navy suddenly came to life and scored eight unanswered points for the win.

The tramps trail league-leading HMCS Venture by two points. All teams have one game remaining in the schedule that concludes Saturday.

David Gordon led Navy to its win yesterday, kicking a convert and two penalty goals.

Roger Howe had a try for Royal Roads while Wayne Hutchinson scored a try and kicked a convert.

Play continues Saturday with Navy and Venture meeting at 1 p.m. at Colville Park, Victoria University 'B' and Royal Roads play at 2 p.m. at Carnarvon Park.

Trail Vs. Nanaimo Tonight
NANAIMO—Nanaimo Le Baron's Trail rink at 7:30 p.m. tonight in the opening game of a best-of-five series for the B.C. intermediate hockey championship.

Second game of the series, Trail vs. Nanaimo, will be played Saturday night at 7:30 p.m. at the same venue.

Trail scored 10 goals in the first game, while Nanaimo scored 8.

John Lardner Dies Working on Obituary

NEW YORK (UPI)—Columnist and sportswriter John Lardner, 48, best known for his tongue-in-cheek tales of the sports world, died at his home here last night of a heart attack.

Lardner, at the time of his death a columnist and contributing editor of Newsweek magazine since 1939, was working on the obituary of another well-known columnist, Franklin P. Adams, a Newsweek spokesman said.

Lardner was the author of many books including "White Hopes and Other Tigers," "Strong, Clear and Lovely Women," "It Beats Working," "The Yanks in the Pacific" and "Southeast Passage." He was a contributor to many Harvard before taking his magazines and had been a first job in journalism as a writer of drama, films and television for the New Yorker magazine.

Lardner was one of four sons of famed humorist and sports writer Ring Lardner, Ring Lardner Jr., a playwright and free lance writer, is the only brother surviving James Lardner was killed in the Spanish civil war, and David was killed while a war correspondent for the New Yorker in Germany in 1944.

Lardner himself was wounded while a war correspondent for Newsweek in the Mediterranean.

He covered campaigns in the south Pacific, North Africa and Italy between 1942 and 1945.

Lardner graduated from Phillips Academy at Andover, Mass., in 1929, and studied at Harvard before taking his first job in journalism as a general reporter for the New York Herald Tribune. He also was a sports columnist for the North American Newspaper Alliance before joining Newsweek.

Lardner is survived by his widow, Hazel, two daughters, Susan 20, and Mary Jane, 15, and a son, John 16.

Red Smith Top Writer
SALISBURY, N.C. (AP)—Red Smith, New York Herald Tribune sports columnist, and Lindsey Nelson, National Broadcasting Company sports announcer, have been chosen by their contemporaries as the United States national sports-caster of the year. They will be honored here April 12 at a banquet.

Smith's column, Views of Sport, appears in the Daily Colonist.

Quebec Ladies Meet Saskatchewan Crew

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP)—Quebec won the Eastern Canada ladies' curling championship Thursday, coming from behind with some tremendous clutch scoring in the final end to defeat Nova Scotia 9-8.

It was the fourth straight win for the unbeaten rink skipped by Mrs. Ruth Smith of Laval and the third in which Mrs. Smith snatched victory from defeat in the final minutes.

Mrs. Smith's Eastern champions will play a best-of-three consolation series with the Western champions led by Joyce McKee of Saskatoon today.

Mrs. Smith was trailing 8-6 going into the 10th and final end against Mrs. Marge Harris of Liverpool. She came up with a three-point in the string of some excellent shooting with her final rocks.

Record Entry For Tourney

Headed by defending champion Bill Wakeham, a record entry of 164 golfers will compete Sunday in qualifying round play of the 1960 Vancouver Island Open match play championships.

Sunday's qualifying round play will be held at Royal Colwood Golf Club with the first foursome set to tee off at 7:30 a.m.

Match play will begin the following week with the low 32 gross scorers and the low 32 net scorers pursuing respective trophies.

FINALS MAY 1

Additional rounds are scheduled for Uplands, April 10, at Victoria club, April 17, at Colwood, April 24, and the 36-hole finals at Gorge Vale, May 1.

Until Thursday, limit of entries for the annual championships was set at 120. Arrival of several more entry forms prompted tournament officials to set a higher limit. Draw for the qualifying round was made Wednesday at a special meeting of the Victoria District Golf Committee. Also, it was decided that failure to tee off at prescribed times will mean disqualification or, in case of match play, loss of match.

Nanaimo Club Here For Soccer Windup

Majestic Royals and Nanaimo Harwood Club will meet Saturday at Royal Athletic Park in the feature game of the Lower Island Junior and Juvenile Soccer League's week-end schedule.

The game is a Vancouver Island final. Winner travels to Vancouver later this month for the B.C. championships.

Saturday's game begins at 12:15 p.m. and is a preliminary to the Vancouver Firefighters' Victoria Evcoes Province Cup semi-final.

Daryl Spencer Tees Off

Biggest Sluggers Out-Slugged

Daryl Spencer, considered a fancy fielder and a so-so hitter, out-thumped Hank Aaron and Harmon Killebrew, two of baseball's biggest sluggers, Thursday in major league exhibition games.

Spencer, traded by San Francisco to the St. Louis Cardinals this winter after hitting 265 and getting only 12 home runs in 1959, hit three round-trippers in the Cards' 10-3 drubbing of the New York Yankees.

Aaron had a home run and double to drive in six runs in the Milwaukee Braves' 9-7 victory over the Chicago White Sox while Killebrew hit his first homer of the exhibition season—a three-run blast that helped the Washington Senators beat Los Angeles 9-7.

Spencer hit two-run homers off rookies Frank Carpin and Zack Monroe and had a solo shot off loser Art Ditmar to drive in five runs.

Mickey Mantle played his first game for the Yankees, going the full nine innings on his injured knee, but did not get a hit in four at-bats. He walked once.

Garden Notes

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Generally speaking, the best time to plant and transplant spring-blooming perennial plants is in the fall, and fall-blooming subjects in the spring. This being the case, it is about time now to lift, divide and replant any overgrown clumps of Michaelmas daisies.

A flat-tined digging fork is the best implement for lifting. Work your way all around the clump, levering it up gradually from different angles until you can ease the whole clump clear of the ground with the least possible disturbance. Place the mass of roots in the shade with a wet sack thrown over it until the soil has been dug over and enriched.

Such perennial plants can be fed with chemical fertilizers at any time through the growing season—preferably as a liquid feed, with the soluble fertilizer dissolved in water—but the only time you can restock the soil with fibrous, humus-forming material is on such occasions when the plants are out of the ground.

An opportunity like this mustn't be passed up and the vacated piece of ground should be dug over, incorporating organic matter at the rate of one bucketful per square yard.

Animal manure has a little something extra in it which purely vegetable matter doesn't have—probably hormones, enzymes and various glandular products. The exact role of these substances in plant nutrition isn't too well understood, but certainly the old-time gardener's faith in manure was not misplaced.

In this case, though, where replanting is to be done immediately, any manure dug in should be so well rotted as to be unrecognizable as such. New stuff can burn the roots of your plants, while half-rotted material depresses the fertility of the soil temporarily unless supplemented with chemical fertilizer.

One trouble with manure is the fact that you can't buy it in small quantities—you take a whole load, or nothing. When you are merely renovating a small portion of the perennial border, you may have to make do with substitutes. Homemade compost is excellent, and failing this, a pretty fair substitute for manure can be made by soaking peat moss in a solution of chemical fertilizer in water, and digging it in just as you would manure.

Use any of the "instant" type of fertilizer—Old Gardener, Liqui-Life, Hyponex, Green Cross Lawn Green, Instant Vigoro or fish emulsion—at the rate of two level tablespoonfuls per gallon of water. Wring out the soaked peat before spreading on the soil preparatory to digging it in.

With the ground prepared and consolidated by treading all over the newly-dug portion, the Michaelmas daisy clump may be divided and the pieces replanted. Smaller, younger clumps may be split in two, either cutting with an old bread knife or carpenter's saw, or by inserting two digging forks back to back and levering the mass apart.

With older clumps, it is best to detach and plant young and vigorous small pieces from around the edge of the mass, discarding the old, worn-out, woody portion in the middle. In planting these small pieces, don't set them in singly in splendid isolation, but group them in threes and fours spaced only six to eight inches apart. These will soon grow together, forming a new and vigorous clump.

Foster Father of the Year

NEW YORK (UPI) — A strong performance by Richard Boone carried the night for U.S. Steel Hour's unsteady offering, "The Charlie and the Kid."

Boone portrayed a guilt-ridden "Charlie," or tramp clown, in James Lipton's CBS-TV teleplay. The shadings Boone applied to the clown created an enormously sympathetic human being, a richer personality, perhaps, than even the author created.

In the play, Boone was the stern guardian of a young boy who was orphaned by one of those circus high-wire tragedies. The noble-minded, simple "Charlie" panicked when confronted with a seemingly routine insurance inquiry. His muddled thinking, which somehow never considered consulting a lawyer, also rejected legalizing his guardianship. Boone's subsequent anguish led him into a drunken stupor and, as time ran out, into a more or less happy ending.

Unfortunately, the author held back the enormous guilt feeling that gnawed at Boone until the close of the play, which just about wiped out the story's impact. Had Boone's true motives been introduced sooner his actions may have made more sense and a more meaningful and haunting hour would have evolved.

Geraldine Brooks was Boone's girl in the play and she laid on the Anne Bancroft-type inflections a bit too heavily, although it served to add some color to her otherwise bland role. Young Flip Mark, as the kid, behaved as a kid should and usually does.

By some coincidence, this was the second time this month we have seen Boone in a play about a single man who acquires a young son. (The other was "Tomorrow," on Playhouse 90.) If Boone doesn't win an actor of the year award, maybe he'll at least wind up as "foster father of the year."

Beat the Clock observed its 10th birthday this week without a ceremony of any sort.

An ABC-TV Clock watcher has figured that in those 10 years, contestants destroyed 22,000 balloons and 11,000 dishes. Since TV is working on a new image, no mention was made of the cream pie-throwing total. I kept tabs on the show this week, after a long hiatus, and find myself amazed at only one thing on the show—the way emcee Bud Collyer still manages to smile through it all. I regard his achievement as one of the triumphs that made the '50s so fabulous.

Also on ABC-TV, The Charley Weaver Show called it quits Wednesday night after five months of aimless thrashing around. A monkey in the show's final "comedy" sketch probably said it best: in the middle of the sketch, he (or she) walked off the stage.

On the credit side of ABC-TV's Wednesday night ledger was another pleasing "Music for a Spring Night" half-hour. A half-dozen performers, of whom Dody Goodman was perhaps the best known, offered musical numbers from the New York stage shows in which they're appearing. It made for a crisp show.

Hedy's 'Ex' Courts Gene

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) — Gene Tierney, now living with her mother in Westport, Conn., is awaiting the visit of Texas millionaire Howard Lee, who is awaiting his divorce from Hedy Lamarr. Lee is hoping Gene will say "yes" to his marriage proposal.

And Linda Christian, who has a weakness for tall, dark, handsome men, has discovered Stephen Boyd—who is tall and handsome.

Also, look for Dolores Michaels to be the next Mrs. Don Murray. They met during "One Foot in Hell." However, friends are still hoping that Don will patch up his separation from wife Hope Lange.

Big conglomerate of glamour for the new Dino Di Laurentiis film, "The Dolls," to be made on the French Riviera—Mamie Van Doren, Joan Collins and Stella Stevens (the Appassionata Van Climax of "Li'l Abner").

On the theory that you can't have too much of a good thing, there will be two Oscar Wilde movies in the very near future. Peter Finch has already been announced for one. Now I hear that Robert Morley will play the other. He'll be directed by that articulate Russian, Gregory Ratoff.

Jean Daurymple, who scored a coup in bringing the Lunts to her City Centre in New York in "The Visit," is hoping for David Wayne to repeat the role he created a decade ago, in her repeat of "Finian's Rainbow."

Frank Sinatra's children believe in working. Nancy tells as a secretary for her father. I'm told her services are valued at $150 weekly. Frank, Jr., works afternoons at the William Morris Agency.

When the Theatre Guild was planning the Dore Schary musical production, "The Unsinkable Mrs. Brown," someone suggested Doris Day for the lead. Whereupon one of the directors, who shall be nameless to spare his blushes, sent a memo to his associates: "Doris Day has been suggested. Do you know if she sings?"

A nice lady who looks after Natalie Wood wrote me that the young actress will be in New York April 1 to star for Elia Kazan in "Splendor in the Grass"—and she has always been first choice of both Kazan and the author, William Inge. There was a postscript: "Kazan did see Janie Fonda, but I think he's talking to her about a play."

Lilli Palmer's "Conspiracy of Hearts" is one of the most touching movies I have ever seen. And should be seen as a reminder of what can happen when dictators make war on children. Lilli is superb as a mother, Katharine, who defies the Nazi commandant, and his brutal lieutenant. And what a beautiful girl is Sylvia Syms, as Sister Migya. And David Kossoff as the rabbi is excellent.

Ernie Kovacs, who lost so much weight for "Our Man in Havana" that I didn't recognize him until the movie was almost over, was laughing uproariously during most of the "Wake Me When It's Over" preview. Afterwards, Ernie informed: "I've got two good movies coming up—'Five Golden Hours' in England, about an Italian pallbearer who has romances with five widows, and 'The Alaskans' with John Wayne."

Jack Lemmon, back from Hawaii where "The Wackiest Ship in the Army" is in a state of suspension, explains, "I'm not resting. I'm doing a bit in 'Pope' and who isn't? And I'm writing some 'Music to Strike By.' Isn't this a terrible situation?"

Our Gang' Child Star

Pushed Into Adult World

Nanette Unbroken by a Breakdown

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Most of my friends realize I had a mental illness and accept the fact that I am cured. But some people look at me strangely and wonder when I'm going to fly off again."

During a break in rehearsals for an NBC television show for tonight, Nanette Fabray discussed a serious subject. She talks about her own breakdown, and not in the way that some celebrities have bared their souls for publicity and profit.

Nanette's problems came to a head in 1953 after a lifetime in show business. After a start as a child star in the "Our Gang" comedies, she had enjoyed great success in Broadway musicals and was planning a night club date through she hated night clubs.

months trying to memorize was talking to a friend on the one number and I wouldn't telephone. All I would say in admit to myself that some answer to his question was: thing was wrong. One day I, No more. No more. No more."

Razor Ad Nicked —It's Too Scary

government yesterday charged that a television commercial for Schick Safety Razors II legally frightens the American public. The advertisement shows a competing razor slash at a boxing glove worn by a champion boxer.

The Federal Trade Commission said the TV demonstration represents an illegal method of competition, by which the advertiser attempts to frighten prospective purchasers of competitive razors.

Named in the complaint were Eversharp Inc., the manufacturer of Schick razors, and its advertising agency, Compton Advertising Inc., both of New York City.

In the challenged commercial, announcer Bud Palmer runs an "old-style round-head" across a champion boxer's glove, slashing its surface. Palmer then says, "Look! It's so scary, it's scary."

Her next memory was being in a mental hospital. After seven months of intensive treatment she was released. Two years of psychiatric aid followed. Then she felt able to cope with the problems of her life and career.

"My first work afterward was with Sid Caesar," she said. "I told him frankly what had happened to me and explained that I didn't know whether I could even remember lines. He said he would take a chance."

It was a chance worth taking. The two seasons of Caesar and Fabray on TV are among most viewers' fondest memories. And Nanette won two awards in one year from the TV Academy.

While she didn't discuss her own reason for mental breakdown, she said it was apparent that she was a child performer contributed to it. Said Nanette, "It is unnatural for a child to have to compete in an adult world."

Bumpy Road Ahead CNR Report Warns

OTTAWA (CP) — A bumpy road ahead is forecast for the Canadian railway industry in the annual report of the Ca-

Drop of 72 Per Cent

Profits for TCA Hit Air Pocket

Trans-Canada Air Lines made a profit for the ninth successive year in 1959, but the profit from a record revenue of $134,678,748 shrank to a comparatively insignificant $152,554.

The annual report tabled in the House of Commons yesterday showed that the gross revenue rose by 12 per cent from $120,554,769 in 1958, but the net profit was down 72 per cent from $394,875.

Trans-continental opposition from CPA was cited as one of the reasons for the lower profit margin of TCA.

The number of usable occupied seats rose sharply from 31.7 per cent in 1958 to 33.5 per cent in 1959.

The report said the downward pressure on profits resulting from the lower load factor was offset by increased efficiency and a 12-per-cent growth in traffic volume.

TCA carried 3,269,197 passengers in the year, topping the 3,000,000 mark for the first time in its 22-year history.

president Donald Gordon said financial results were disappointing during a year when the Canadian economy broke records in the value of goods and services produced.

The publicly-owned railway ended the year with a $43,588,290 deficit, down from a deficit of $51,600,000 in 1958.

The capital budget for 1960, tabled at the same time by Transport Minister Hees, forecast a smaller deficit of $24,000,000 this year.

Nevertheless the CNR report adopts a note of worry about the future.

"The fact that the revenues of the CN and indeed of the railway industry in general did not reflect more closely this buoyancy in the economy brings into sharp focus the serious challenge facing management," it said.

The railways' share of the transportation market continued to decline despite some increase in volume. Higher wages and material prices ate up gains in productivity and cut deeply into the yield from higher freight rates.

$14,729 Home NHA Average

OTTAWA (UPI)—The average borrower of a National Housing Act loan last year was 34 years old, the father of one or two children, made $5,716 and bought a $14,729 home. The new owner made a down payment of $3,094 and undertook monthly payments of $96—or 20.1 per cent of his income.

Chances were eight-to-one the home of his choice was a three-bedroom bungalow rather than a split-level or two-storey dwelling.

Boy Tied, Burned, Two Lads Charged

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two 14-year-old boys appeared in children's court yesterday to answer charges they tied another boy to a parking meter and set him on fire.

The victim, Michael Guilfoyle, also 14, was taken to Grand Central Hospital with severe leg burns. He was reported in serious condition.

Guilfoyle said he thought the two boys who turned him into a torch were "just horsing around." But police said the boys told them they were after Guilfoyle's school transportation pass.

Canada's Proposal Today

Six-Mile Limit?

GENEVA (CP) — A Canadian proposal calling for unqualified acceptance of a six-mile territorial limit and an adjacent fishing zone extending 12 miles offshore is expected to be made today at the 87-country United Nations conference on the Law of the Sea.

George Drew, chief Canadian delegate, is expected to make a proposal similar to the Canadian measure that failed to win the necessary two-thirds majority at the last conference two years ago.

That proposal was criticized Thursday by Arthur H. Dean, United States delegate, who said that under its provisions the fishing rights of other countries would be "summarily extinguished."

Dean's alternative proposal would permit a country regularly using another country's fishing zone for five years to continue to do so.

The U.S. proposal, supported by Britain, was also made at the last conference but is modified by limiting the fishing country to the present level of its catch in its "traditional" zone.

Canada maintains there is no basis in international law for "traditional rights." It suggests such problems be negotiated outside the general framework of international agreement by countries concerned.

These new Chevies are as much as 2½ feet shorter overall than comparable conventional models and save up to 4 feet in wheelbase. Manoeuvrability is outstanding. Handling in tight places is child's play. You get greater load capacity. Maintenance costs and servicing are cut to the minimum. And because they're Chevrolets, you know you can count on top dependability and operating economy for the years ahead. Check on these short new answers to bigger-profit hauling soon. Consult a truck expert at your authorized Chevrolet dealer's.

1 ROOMIEST CABS. They're a full 6½ feet wide with plenty of head and leg room for lanky drivers. "Picture Window" visibility is safe, helps cut down driver fatigue, increase driver efficiency.

2 TRIPLE-SAFE LOCKING SYSTEM. Gives sure protection against accidental tilting. Main locking lever can be padlocked. When it's released a safety latch prevents tilting yet warns driver the cab is unlocked.

3 NEW EASE OF MAINTENANCE. Slashes upkeep costs. Servicing's faster, simpler and far less costly. Maintenance operations can be performed in as little as half the time needed for conventional trucks.

4 STATIONARY CONTROL ISLAND. Stays firmly put when cab is tilted. Rigidly mounted on frame, it contains transmission control, hand brake, choke, throttle and ignition switch.

5 TORSION SPRING TILTING HINGE. Takes the work out of tilting. A tough torsion bar counterbalances the cab's weight, makes tilting a breeze. And the tremendously strong torsion bar is built to be rattle-free.

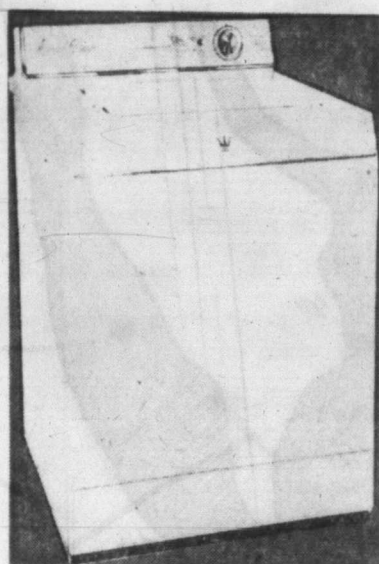

6 REVOLUTIONARY TORSION SPRING RIDE. Friction-free torsion bars soak up jars of all sizes. With variable-rate rear springs, you get an amazingly smooth ride for higher, safer cruising speeds, longer truck life.

7 UNBEATABLE NEW FRAMES. They feature a massive K-brace cross member and rigid box-section side rail construction. Beam strength and torsional stiffness are high, for top payload capacity and stamina.

Four and 4½ Per Cent

City Staff Gets Hike

A 4½-per-cent across-the-board wage increase for the city council after discussion in closed committee.

The other two major employee groups, the policemen and firemen, are now awaiting awards of a conciliation board.

The inside and outside staff wage increases will add about $47,000 this year to the city's wage bill as it affects taxes, City Comptroller Dennis Young estimated last night.

Also approved were four weeks' vacation for outside staff members 60 years old or more and with 15 or more years of service, and four weeks' vacation for inside staff members after 20 years of service.

Second Woodpecker On the Rampage

While Oak Bay police searched in vain for a furtive woodpecker on Henderson Road early Wednesday morning, another woodpecker was attacking the roof of a nearby home in the 2500 block Bowker Avenue.

Complaints of woodpeckers damaging homes have also come from the 3100 block Henderson and 300 block Newport Avenue.

McEwen Claim:

Pacific Club Tax Relief 'Improper'

A court of revision "acted very, very improperly" in removing the Pacific Club from the business tax assessment roll, Ald. Elmer McEwen claimed yesterday in city council.

Giant Jet To Circle Over City

A giant DC-8 127-passenger jet aircraft, first of two purchased by Trans-Canada Air Lines, will circle over Greater Victoria today between 2 and 3 p.m.

The DC-8s are to be used in TCA's new four-hour flight between Vancouver and Montreal starting April 1.

Only Loot Was Bottle Of Liqueur

A thief who ransacked an Oak Bay home last night made off with a fancy bottle of liqueur but didn't bother to take such valuables as cameras, binoculars and furs.

Mrs. Albert Yuen, 3495 Cadboro Bay Road, said she and her husband returned from visiting relatives at 9:45 p.m. to find all the drawers and cupboards standing open.

"They rummaged through everything," said Mrs. Yuen, but all that was immediately known to be missing was an amber-colored bottle of Italian liqueur named Tears of Gold, value $8.

U.S. Warships Arrive Today

Two U.S. Navy destroyers are due to arrive at Esquimalt at 1 p.m. today for a weekend visit. The ships USS Edmonds and USS Brannon are carrying naval reservists from the Portland and San Diego on a training cruise.

Thetis Fight Over Easement Given

Council Will Accept Durrance Lake Deal

By R. O. MARRION

The long fight over a B.C. Electric power line right-of-way at Thetis Lake is over.

NORMAN FINDLER

City council voted yesterday to accept the company's offer of 250 acres of Durrance Lake property and $5,200 for 104 acres of Thetis Lake property. In addition, the city will receive an easement over the whole 104 acres, guaranteeing public access.

BEST TERMS

This last provision apparently was gained in a conference yesterday between Aldermen M. H. Mooney and Austin Curtis and the company. The aldermen had been delegated to seek the company's best possible terms.

In the end, Ald. Mooney alone held out against accepting the offer, and he—accused of wanting council to dilly-dally—wanted the proposal given further consideration.

By dilly-dallying, he said, council had received a much better proposition than "26 acres for $5,200 for ever and a day."

CITY WATERSHED
Majority of council appeared to presume in debate that Durrance Lake will not be dedicated as a park, but will be treated as a city watershed in order to avoid taxation by the province.

Ald. Curtis proposed acceptance of the offer. He said the company was a public utility, required to produce the power needed by the people of the area, and "should have equal consideration with the people who oppose it."

Aldermen Mooney and Rev. J. L. W. McLean held the delegation should have reported back to the public works and parks committee, which sent it, not to council.

Ald. McLean said undue haste seemed to be advocated. Mayor Percy Scurreh said, however, that the B.C. Electric had said two weeks ago the need was urgent, and had been promised a decision yesterday.

PRESS CRITICIZED

Ald. McLean also criticized the press for obtaining B.C. Electric opinion on the committee's suggestion by better terms. The newspapers, he said, were acting out of turn, and stepping where they have no business to go. He thought the press might have prejudiced the city's case by "publicizing it in advance."

Aldermen Arthur Dowell and Hugh Ramsay were willing to accept the B.C. Electric offer with Durrance Lake excluded.

Worker Struck By Wood Block

Hans Jacobson, 640 Dunedin, was in satisfactory condition last night at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Seen In Passing

Norman Findler checking a receipt. He is mechanical superintendent at the city's Garbally Road yard, where he has been in charge for 11 years. He and his wife Alice have two married daughters, Beverley and Mary Lou. His chief forms of relaxation are playing the trumpet and, cruising on his 38-foot boat Zanda.

Colin Moir enjoying a coffee break. Stan Henderson catching up on his spring gardening. Owen Hawkins discussing tape recorders. Bill Atkinson trying out a new camera. Art Turner tuning up his new car. Doug Hudlin looking forward to another season as an umpire in the local baseball leagues. Kate Robertson working hard at typing someone else's essay. Debbie Easton getting the worst of conversation with three boys.

Cluster Lights Glaring?

Victoria's cluster lights produce a blinding effect, street-lighting superintendent Kenneth Reid said yesterday, and "any bus driver in town will tell you he's scared to death."

Mr. Reid made the statement in answer to public works chairman ARL Geoffrey Edgewood who, maintaining that the cluster lights should be kept, suggested that they could be made brighter.

No factor is as detrimental to visibility as glare, Mr. Reid said, and the cluster lights, with a block of wood at B.C. Forest Products Ltd., 371 Gorge.

Victim of Fall 'Critical'

Mrs. Alice Wild, 74, 635 Superior, seriously injured March 17 in a 21-foot fall from her bedroom window onto concrete basement steps, last night was said to be "critical again" at St. Joseph's Hospital. She was in fair condition several days ago.

Lucky Lad Escapes Injury

Four-year-old Kevin Worth of 1910 Brighton was lucky yesterday. Police said the lad ran out into road while playing at Brighton and Wilmer, into side of truck driven by Peter Johnson, 944 Maddison. He was taken by

Mayor's Contention

Chest Ruined By Tag Days

Mayor Percy Scurreh claimed yesterday that "you're ruining the Community Chest by granting tag-days to everybody," but the majority of aldermen didn't agree with him.

They voted to allow 10 organizations to have tag-days this year, turning down the Lions Club, the Chinese Consolidated Benevolent Association, and the Old Age Pensioners' Organization, Victoria Branch No. 5.

Those granted the right to tag-days were the Women's Auxiliary to Royal Jubilee Hospital, Gorge Road Hospital Auxiliary, Junior Chamber of Commerce, said last night preliminary judging has been tentatively set for April 8.

The eight finalists will appear each night of the Jaycee exhibition, May 16 to 21, in Memorial Arena with the judging on the final night.

Winner of the contest will also be crowned Miss Victoria by the Greater Victoria Celebrations Committee.

10 LAST YEAR

Ald. M. H. Mooney: Last year council granted 10 tag-days and "we heard no cries from John Public. The only complaint was from the Community Chest." All the requests should be granted.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgewood: "Let them all have tag-days and let the public decide which to give to."

Mayor Scurreh: Only way to get all charitable organizations into the Chest is to have no tag-days.

DON'T DETRACT

Ald. Hugh Ramsay: "I don't see why organizations should be forced into the Chest and I don't think tag-days detract from the Chest at all."

Ald. Arthur Dowell: "Take away tag-days and you take away the incentive from all small organizations doing a grand and useful work."

Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson: "I don't believe tag-days hurt the Community Chest at all."

Name Judge Council Asks

City council yesterday acted on the recommendation of intermunicipal committee and sought immediate formation of a family and juvenile court.

It asked the attorney general to appoint a judge, who would pick his own court clerk, and to provide two probation officers, and advised him of its willingness to pay its share of the judge's and clerk's salaries and the probation officers' expenses.

Vancouver Police Denies Crackdown

Vancouver deputy police chief Gordon Ambrose yesterday denied a suggestion by Victoria's Chief Constable John Blackstock that Vancouver police are conducting a crackdown which is driving criminals to Victoria.

"There is a continuing check of known criminals," said the deputy. "But we are not driving them out of the city."

Chief Blackstock and Police Commissioner William Hamilton said Wednesday that about 50 criminals who formerly resided in Vancouver are now living in Victoria.

Many of them are former pedes.

Twin-Engine Trackers Delivered Today

Two twin-engine Tracker aircraft will be received today by the RCN's Pacific Command air squadron at Patricia Bay.

The planes are especially designed to detect and destroy submarines.

They are equipped with sonobuoys, rockets and homing torpedoes.

City Woman Celebrates 100 Years

A 100th birthday party was held Wednesday for Mrs. Catherine Davy at St. Charles Nursing Home.

More than 30 guests attended the party for the "kindly, active lady," said Mrs. Gordon McArthur of the rest home.

Telegrams of congratulation were received from Queen Elizabeth, Prime Minister Diefenbaker, Defence Minister George Pearkes, Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross and Premier Bennett.

Right-of-Way Obstacle To Widening

A highways department official said yesterday that one of the obstacles to widening the Patricia Bay Highway to four lanes is the narrowness of the right-of-way along "critical sections."

He said some engineering work of a planning nature has been done as a prelude to eventual widening of the main Saanich Peninsula traffic artery, but it is believed that a start on actual construction is not imminent.

The official said the problems posed by the restricted right-of-way could be solved two ways—by divided north-south traffic lanes or by re-routing over some sections.

If You're Not Attending Symphony Please Turn In Your Ticket

Season ticket holders who won't be attending the Sunday and Monday concerts of the Victoria Symphony Orchestra with hundreds still clamoring were urged last night to turn in their tickets so others will have a chance to attend.

Request was made by Victoria pianist.

Season tickets may be turned in for these performances only at the Eaton's box office, and holders will receive a cash refund.

A few tickets are still available for the Tuesday performance in Duncan featuring the same artists and program.

There has been one change in the symphony program. Because of illness, the noted Australian musician Sir Bernard Heinze will be unable to appear as guest conductor. His place will be taken by symphony director Hans Gruber.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann: At Christmas time we wanted to help a needy family. For our kindness we received a slap in the face. I've been fuming for months and decided to get your opinion.

This family lives a block away. There are six small children who always look ragged. The mother is a worn-out little thing and the father is a sergeant in the Marine Corps. During the holidays I went over with some good used clothing and a carton of food. The door was almost slammed in my face. I was told they didn't need charity and to take the stuff to someone who could use it.

Do enlisted men get an allowance for each child? Do they get housing, medical care and a pension? If I had an idea of what this man earned I'd feel better. Can you help me or is this information secret?—WONDERING

Dear Wondering: I'm sure you meant well but next time

Not Good Company

Dear Ann: I met this man when I was a waitress at a very nice restaurant. I knew he was married but I didn't care. I had just been divorced and was lonesome. He said his wife was a nice person but not very good company.

He talked about divorcing his wife and marrying me but nothing ever came of it. We went together four years and I gave birth to a baby boy.

The boy is now five years old and notices that he doesn't have a father. This man supports the child but he doesn't spend any time with us. I told the child he's my cousin. Is there any legal action I can take to force a marriage? I'm beginning to think I was a little fool.—NO RING.

Dear No Ring: Well—comes the dawn! You weren't a little fool, you were a big one. The man is married and the law recognizes only one wife at a time. If he is supporting the child he is meeting his legal obligation.

Dear Ann: I'm 17 and going steady with a swell kid. We

Royal Wedding

Little Girls Margaret's Bridesmaids

LONDON (UPI)—Princess Margaret yesterday named eight little girls—including her niece Princess Anne—to be her bridesmaids when she marries Antony Armstrong-Jones in Westminster Abbey, May 6.

The oldest bridesmaid will be 12, and the youngest six.

PRINCESS ANNE
The bridesmaids are: Princess Anne, nine; Marilyn Wills, 12, daughter of Major and the Hon. Mrs. John Wills; Annabel Rhodes, eight, daughter of Mr. and the Hon. Mrs. Denys Rhodes; Lady Virginia Fitzroy, six, daughter of the Earl and Countess of Euston; Sarah Lowther, six, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Lowther.

The Hon. Catherine Vesey, six, daughter of Viscount and Viscountess De Vesca and a niece of Tony Armstrong-Jones; Lady Rose Nevill, nine, daughter of the Marquess and Marchioness of Abergavenny; and Angela Nevill, 12, daughter of Lord and Lady Rupert Nevill.

EXPECTED
Such a move had been expected, because the five-foot-tall Princess didn't want any bridesmaids to be taller than she was.

This will be the second time Princess Anne has been a bridesmaid. The first time was earlier this year when

High Style—Low Budget

By NORA MARTIN
PARIS (Special) — It's hard facts, not the number of clothes, which make the French career girl chic.

The "bare fact" is that the average working Mademoiselle, having only half as much money to spend on clothes as her Canadian sister, must plan her wardrobe most carefully.

No impulse buying for her. She has learned through personal experience that to own one or two quality items is better than having half a dozen cheap things and "nothing to wear."

Despite her limited budget—average monthly paycheck is $120—the French girl is most interested in the latest fashions. But instead of buying the eccentric styles, she tries to pick basic and timeless clothes while following the latest "look" and "mood" through details.

OBEYS DIOR

Obedient Dior, she'll shorten or lengthen her skirt hems. She will buy a blouse or a sweater in a new stunning shade. She may get a modish contour belt for a dropped waist effect and tie her scarves gypsy style. She will also experiment with the latest hairdo to mark a new fashion season.

ALL-DUTY COAT

Plenty of sweaters and blouses, a smartly-tailored suit, an all-duty coat and a drawer full of accessories will see the average French career girl through her day.

For after-office hours her ideal is to own an alluring cocktail dress which she is likely to choose in black.

Besides, she will have dressy separates and a pale colored short-sleeved wool dress to wear for an after-office date or dinner with friends.

The clothes in mademoiselle's wardrobe are the result of two or three years careful planning. A recent poll among French career girls showed that they cannot afford to buy more than one major piece per year for their wardrobe.

With salaries low and the cost-of-living-high in France, the career girl can't spend more than about 15 per cent of her income in clothes.

CHANEL LINE

Business girls whose jobs call for contacts with the public usually "live" in suits as their Parisian "uniforms." Ever since famed Paris designer Chanel revived the casually elegant tuxedo of French career girls have found an ideal solution. It is the tailored, all-purpose coat in a pastel shade or recently in red outfit for all French working women from executives down to the junior typist.

For most career girls custom-made suits with haute couture labels are out of the question.

The lowest price for ready-to-wear styles designed by Paris couturiers, tagged around $100, is much too expensive.

ALL-PURPOSE

Concerning coats, practical French career girls have found an ideal solution. It is the tailored, all-purpose coat in a pastel shade or recently in red

Alton-Lacy

Bride in Brocade

FULFORD — St. Mary's Anglican Church at Fulford was the scene of a pretty wedding when Hilda Ruby Margaret Lacy, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Lacy of Fulford, was united in marriage to Mr. Reginald Roy Alton, Vancouver.

She wore a white three-quarter brocade dress in rose pattern, with lily point sleeves, modified empire line with a perky bow. Hand sewn appliques and iridescent sequins bordered the scalloped neck line.

She wore an heirloom veil of Calais lace attached to a pearl tiara. She carried red roses, white carnations and wild lilies.

Her attendant was Miss Judy Almas, Nanaimo, who wore a dress of deep blue, with a sheer jacket. She carried pink tulips and white hyacinths.

Authority on English Prof. Larsen Dies

VANCOUVER (CP) — Prof. Thorleif Larsen, a member of the English department of the University of British Columbia from 1919 to 1958, has died here at the age of 72. B.C.'s Rhodes scholar for 1907, he wrote several high school English text books.

WA AND WMS

Miss B. Wilson spoke to a group of the Afternoon Auxiliary of the Woman's Missionary Society, about the amalgamation of WMS and WA as one federation of women within the United Church of Canada. The address followed a box lunch gathering and a business meeting of the WA.

Groomsman was Mr. John Archibald of Vancouver, B.C. Archdeacon G. H. Holmes officiated at the ceremony.

The reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Lacy.

Toast to the bride was given by Captain L. B. Drummond.

For her going away costume, she wore a suit of wedgewood blue shade, with hat, purse and shoes in navy blue.

After a honeymoon in California, Mr. and Mrs. Alton will reside in Fulford Harbor.

Baskets of white stocks and pink carnations filled the First Baptist church recently for the wedding of Carolyn Anne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Zabel of Victoria, to Mr. William Weldon.

Rev. G. R. Easter conducted the candlelight ceremony.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Weldon of Victoria.

The fair-haired bride was lovely in a gown of soft shell pink lace. Ballerina-length dress was fashioned with scooped neckline and short cap sleeves. Bride's princess crown headpiece of pink velvet held her circular pink face veil. As "something borrowed," she wore her mother's pearl earrings. She carried pink rosebuds and stephanotis.

Maid of honor, Miss Mona McConnell wore a petal pink organza gown and she carried a colonial bouquet of pink carnations.

After a honeymoon in California, Mr. and Mrs. Alton will reside in Fulford Harbor.

Mr. Ted Stumph was honored by his wife, and Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Holman.

Mr. 'K' Blunt

Mrs. 'K' Shy

PARIS (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev is a blunt-spoken, aggressive man, but his wife Nina Thursday was called timid by a little French schoolgirl.

VIVA NINA

Several hundred people braved a steady rain and cried "Viva Nina" as Mrs. Khrushchev stepped from a car to visit the Lycee Claude Monet, France's most modern school for girls.

Mrs. Khrushchev, her step-daughter Julia and her daughters Pasha and Yelena toured the school with Mrs. Louis Joxe, wife of the former French ambassador to Moscow.

Mrs. Khrushchev asked if the school was state owned and if tuition was free. Both answers were yes. She spent longer in the physics and chemistry classes than anywhere else.

CHARMING

Mrs. Khrushchev was a charming and thoughtful woman, said one teacher after the visit. "I thought she was timid," said a 10-year-old girl with whom Mrs. Khrushchev paused for a chat — perhaps because she was told the little girl is studying Russian.

The style-conscious French crowd noted that the Khrushchev ladies were trimly dressed but not in a style the French would call chic. Mrs. Khrushchev wore a trim black suit, dark cloth coat and a small black hat. The daughters were equally conservative.

Mrs. Khrushchev behaved with polite reserve. The Khrushchev daughters took after their father. A teacher described them as "bubbly."

With its "grow-in" workability, weather resistence and lasting good looks, "Keystone" clear Western Red Cedar Siding has long been recognized as the standard of quality home construction.  It has a distinctive "shadow line" which enhances any architectural style in any setting, and is used to create a variety of interesting decorative effects on interior surfaces as well as exterior.  5 GRADES TO CHOOSE FROM!  "FOREST" CEDAR SIDING  WHAT IS FOREST SIDING? Made of dry 1 1/2" stock in 10 and 12-inch widths. "FOREST" siding is a new type of siding obtained from specially selected cedar logs which show the natural beauty and character of knots, burrs, etc.  APPEARANCE? For homes and buildings where a distinctive and pleasing appearance is desired, enhanced by heavy shadow lines. Sound intergrown knots ranging in size from 2-inch in 6-inch widths to 4-inch in 12-inch widths add to the rustic appearance of this grade.  WHAT ARE ITS QUALITIES? "FOREST" siding, with its substantial thickness and greater wood volume, adds to the structural STRENGTH and solidity of the building. The design of "FOREST" siding ensures a tight weather seal at the lap which together with its thick 1 1/2-inch thickness principle makes excellent material from the INSULATION standpoint. "FOREST" siding represents an economy to home builders. Costing less than most other types of siding, the lap design enables easy fitting and speedy application at less labor cost.  HOW IS IT APPLIED? As easily and quickly as common shipap. Each piece of "FOREST" siding fits snugly on the one below and requires only one nailing cut.  HOW CAN IT BE FINISHED? If a natural finish is desired, use equal proportions of the bleached oil and any well-known brand of waterproof sealer. This not only protects the wood surface, but also brings out the natural beauty of the knots and the grain. If a colored finish is desired, "FOREST" siding can easily be painted. It is recommended that a sharp instrument be used to remove the finished product underneath the butt where it will not show in a stop formation of a vapor barrier. ### Police Move Among Bodies of Riot Victims

South Africa police move among bodies of Africans slain in violent protests against the government's pass rule for non-whites. Sixty-seven died and 237 were hurt in first day of rioting.

Observers believe outbreak may signal start of long, bloody upsurge in South Africa with natives fighting whites over government segregation policy.

Water Rate Boost Delayed by City Till PUC Decides

Increase in city and Esquimalt water rates, originally scheduled for April 1, has been delayed.

City Solicitor T. P. O'Grady informed council yesterday that permission of the Public Utilities Commission must be obtained to raise Esquimalt rates, and that two week's notice of intention to apply for permission must be given.

After that, he said, the PUC will decide whether or not to hold a public hearing.

Council decided to make the increase effective "on the first of the month next following PUC consent."

Council yesterday also approved in principle the arena commission spending $50,000 this year to install new freezing pipes in the arena floor and new boards around the sides of the rink.

Rejected, in line with past policy, the application of the Y's Men's Club for permission to sell nuts door-to-door December.

Authorized preparations for a civic welcome for Governor-General George Vanier when he visits Victoria April 16 to 18.

Referred to legislative committee a petition from 62.7 per cent of the city's barbers to change the barbershop closing day from Wednesday to Monday.

Heard the city solicitor explain to Ald. Rev. J. L. W. McLean that the law protecting Victorians from misrepresentation of quality and quantity of fuel delivered is hard to enforce—"Our experience is that by far the bulk of complaints are from people who haven't taken the most elementary precautions to protect themselves against the results they complain of."

Declined a taxi company's application for a street stand at Douglas and Broughton, and, despite having made two exceptions recently, reaffirmed the policy of not granting street stands.

Gave preliminary approval to a bylaw to prohibit trapping at Elk and Beaver Lakes.

Granted the Gyro Club permission to use Royal Athletic Park in August.

U.K. Careful on Riot Views

Afro-Asians Request UN Session

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—The 29-nation Afro-Asian bloc called yesterday for a meeting of the UN security council to consider the killing of rioting natives by South African police.

The group said UN action was imperative if the continent of Africa and the world were to be saved from "a conflagration which might seriously threaten the peace of the world."

The Soviet Union condemned the South African slaying as "racial genocide" and accused the South African government of ignoring world opinion.

The Soviet statement followed an official protest by the United States Tuesday and sharp criticism by many nations of the world against apartheid.

Many Want To Get Out

JOHANNESBURG (CP)—The Canadian and Australian trade commissions here said Wednesday they are being flooded with inquiries from South Africans about the prospects of emigrating to Canada and Australia.

The Canadian commission said it received up to 70 queries daily since Monday

LONDON (Reuters)—The government submitted to Parliament Thursday a carefully-worded statement on South Africa's native riots as angry protests mounted here and within the Commonwealth over the police shootings there.

The statement, contained in an amendment to an opposition Labor motion, appeared designed to avoid the kind of South African government reaction which greeted a United States state department comment on the riots two days ago.

The amendment said the House of Commons: "While recognizing it has no responsibility or jurisdiction over the independent countries of the Commonwealth, at the same time wishes to record its deep sympathy with all the people of South Africa at the recent tragic events..."

DEBATE SOON

Thursday's Conservative amendment will be debated in the near future with the Labor motion "deplored the shootings" in which more than 70 Negroes were killed.

Meanwhile, skirmishes broke out again Thursday between police and demonstrators outside South Africa House, that country's government headquarters on Trafalgar Square.

Ten persons protesting against the "murder" of Negro rioters were carried away in police trucks. One of them was a girl who appeared to be unconscious.

Swedish Forestry Lions Club Topic

Dick Spilsbury, director of research division of the B.C. Forest Service will discuss Swedish forestry at a meeting of the Victoria Lions Club today at noon in the Empress Hotel.

'Militant' Stand Demanded

OTTAWA (UPI)—Harold Winch (CCF, Vancouver East) last night called on the government to take a "more definite, more militant stand" on the South African apartheid racial situation.

There were indications that Winch might move a motion of non-confidence in the government for not taking a stronger stand to condemn South Africa for Monday's violence.

The government, Winch said, "must take a more definite, a more militant and more explicit stand" on the apartheid situation. It could mean a revolution in the Afro-Asian countries, he added.

Winch was expected to continue his statement today.

'Look Out For Vitriol'

LONDON (Reuters)—Labor MP Mrs. Barbara Castle yesterday received an anonymous letter threatening her with acid mutilation for her "pro-nigger" activities.

The hand-printed message read: "You have almost exhausted our patience with your pro-nigger slush. If you don't stop, look out for VITRIOL, you anti-white-stand by the empire."

Ontario MP Choice For Defence Probe

OTTAWA (UPI)—Ernest Halpeny, the Ontario MP

who adroitly handled the often stormy Commons broadcasting committee last year, appears the likely choice for another "hot spot" this session.

While no final decision had been made, the 56-year-old Halpeny seemed the leading candidate for the chairmanship of the special commons committee on defence.

Chief task facing the chairman will be to enforce the government's decision that the committee's examination should cover only defence administration and expenditures and not policy. Opposition members are expected to continue in the committee the battle they fought in the Commons itself to have the probe broadened.

It's also likely that the chairman will face many of the opposition's leading figures, including Lester B. Pearson and CCF house leader Hazen Argue, in his attempt to hold the committee's course on the government-prescribed line.

Halpeny's experience on the broadcasting committee is regarded by most observers as excellent training for the defence committee task. He handled last session's examination of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation expertly in the face of a number of dangerous and difficult situations.

Famed Book Thief Given Prison Term

GOETTINGEN, Germany people to become bookworms.

(UPI)—Scholarly) bespectacled too. Joachim Krueger, 36, perhaps the greatest book thief of all taking books from libraries time was sentenced last night but said he did it because he to a year and a half imprisonment was really a secret agent.

ment for a small portion of Krueger professed to have his piffling. worked as an agent in East Germany was a bookworm Berlin for the top-secret who spent long hours in German intelligence agency libraries poring over rare and headed by Reinhard Gehlen—valuable books. He easily made known as "the man without a friends with the librarians but face" because of his secret when they were not looking he methods. He invoked security would steal some of the rarer reasons in refusing to answer volumes.

Police said he had stolen Police charge Krueger rare books worth $486,500 ried on most of his thefts since the Second World War while operating a business in and sold many of them abroad Bayreuth which specialized in because he wanted other rare musical manuscripts.

Many Out of Work In Building Industry

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Building Trades Council Wednesday set up a special investigating committee amid reports that many construction workers are out of work at a time when the spring boom should be under way.

Classmates Shun Negroes

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — A school official says that although Negroes have cracked the color barrier in Little Rock, a cruel situation exists in the integrated classrooms. Negro students had protested to Judge John E. Miller the school board's use of an Arkansas pupil placement law to limit integration. The board has assigned only a few Negroes to once-white high schools, and has rejected applications of about 50.

Bigamy Charge Delayed

Bail was set at $500 in city police court yesterday in the case of a Victoria woman accused of bigamy.

Ruby Maxine Kandall, otherwise known as Ruby Maxine Billett, of 1544 Burton, was remanded to today for election of trial method at request of counsel Alan Bigelow.

The Crown charges that the woman, then married to Kenneth Timal Kandall, went through a form of marriage Dec. 21, 1955, with Clarence Billett.

In the same court Magistrate William Ostler fined William McCorkell $250 when he pleaded guilty to impaired driving.

Accused was picked up just after midnight yesterday morning after his car had been in collision with a second at Hillside and Cook. McCorkell's licence was suspended.

In Saanich court yesterday William J. Lynch, 18, of 1347 Gladstone, was fined $40 for being a minor in possession of liquor.

Court was told accused was one of a number of youths checked as they left a party in the Royal Oak district. He had a bottle of beer in his pocket.

Witnesses Sought

City traffic police are seeking information from two men who saw a hit-run accident at about 4:15 p.m. last Monday.

Police say a 1949 or 1950 green Mercury collided with a second car at Balmoral and Blanshard and left the scene.

The two men saw the accident and reported the licence number of the fleeing car to the woman driver of the other vehicle. Police now need their assistance in wrapping up the case.

BIGGEST LITTLE BROTHER...A WAGON EVER HAD!

FALCON This little beauty is more than two feet shorter than its bigger brothers, yet it boasts a whopping 76 cubic feet of loadspace. What does this mean? Why it means you can slide a 7-foot trellis into a new Falcon wagon, pile in a planting of shrubs, bags of fertilizer and shut the tailgate. Or you can flip up the rear seat and ride six adults in sedan comfort with space to spare for all their luggage in the rear. Another "big" Falcon feature is economy—up to 35 miles to a gallon of regular gas, up to 4,000 miles between oil changes. ## WONDERFUL NEW WORLD OF WAGONS

FORD Even though the new Falcon wagons have greater cubic capacity than some of today's full-sized wagons, they still can't beat their big brothers. Ford wagons are built for people with a real load on their mind. A load of gear? Ford accommodates with over 97 cubic feet of loadspace. A load of people? All Ford wagons seat six and there are two models that seat nine happy passengers. The doors are big and they open wide. The seats are broad and the ones in front are foam-cushioned. Of course the suspension is just as hefty as the loads you want to carry and there's power to match your purpose with a choice of a Six or 4 V-8's.

If Engineer Didn't Sleep—No Wonder

If City Engineer James Garnett slept poorly last night, no wonder.

He listened yesterday while public works committee cut Superintendent Kenneth Reid's 1960 street-lighting expenditure estimates of $234,805 by more than $52,000, nearly a quarter. And his turn comes today.

Mr. Reid's estimates didn't cover proposed changes in the downtown lighting system in connection with the underground wiring program. Those changes, according to present plans, will be financed not from current revenue but from the land-sales fund or by borrowing.

From "ordinary" or maintenance estimates the committee cut $11,015.

Of a proposed program costing $70,525, it retained new lighting on Oak Bay Avenue from the Junction to Oak Bay, at $7,875; on Cook from Pandora to Dallas, at $10,500; on Burnside from Douglas to Harriet, at $7,875, and on Pandora from Quadra to Cook, at $2,600.

Crowds of Greater Victoria school teachers packed St. Matthias' Church yesterday to pay tribute to Marian Dorothy James, well-known Victoria teacher who died Tuesday. Service was conducted by Most Rev. Harold E. Sexton, Archbishop of British Columbia.—(Colonist photo.)

Besant Lodge Guest

Speaker at Sunday's public meeting of the Besant Lodge of the Theosophical Society will be Harley Chiches of Chemainus. He will speak on "The Price of Wisdom" in the Lodge Room, Yates Street, at 7.45 p.m.

Teachers, Ex-Pupils, Friends Pay Respects to Miss James

Teachers, former pupils and friends turned out by the hundreds yesterday to pay their last respects to Miss Marian Dorothy James, well-known Victoria teacher who died suddenly Tuesday.

Funeral services were conducted at St. Matthias' Anglican Church by Most Rev. Harold E. Sexton, Archbishop of British Columbia, and the church was filled to overflowing by a crowd of about 300 people.

All Greater Victoria schools had been closed early to allow teachers to attend the funeral of the well-known B.C. educator, whose death at the age of 59 came just 24 hours after she had announced that she would retire in June after 40 years of teaching in this district.

Miss James was concerned with education at the primary level, and was the author of several textbooks used in primary schools in Canada. She also did outstanding work in the kindergarten field and formed the Victoria branch of the Association for Childhood Education.

Miss James was primary superintendent of Greater Victoria schools, a position she had held since 1946.

Honorary pallbearers yesterday were W. O. Gelling, school board chairman; Colin Glover, president of Greater Victoria Teachers' Association; John Gough, superintendent of schools; H. G. Gill, George Hutcheson and Ernie Ware.

Active pallbearers were Dr. J. F. K. English, deputy minister of education; Denis W. Brown, Colin Graham, R. J. Kipling, Kenneth McAllister and Alex Turnbull.

The service was followed by cremation.

The custom of presenting gifts at Christmas dates back to the time of the ancient Romans.

Decision on $1,000,000 Vote Delayed by City Council

City council yesterday delayed a decision on whether downtown area property-owners or property-owners of the whole city should vote on the $1,000,000 parking facility and mall plan.

The city engineer, reporting total estimated cost at $992,250, suggested an area vote. But in a closed committee meeting, council decided to confer with the Victoria Downtown Business Association—possibly next Friday—before choosing.

If only the downtown area votes, only property in that area will stand behind borrowing for the improvement if it should fail to pay its own way.

The engineer also recommended ordering new parking meters now, suitable for the new rate of 10 cents an hour which, he said, could go into operation in October and pay for themselves "long before the revenue therefrom will be needed for debt service" on the parking facilities and malls.

Six Arms Points Agreed

GENEVA (UPI) — French delegate Jules Moch reported yesterday East and West had reached agreement on six principles of disarmament, although subsequent sharp exchanges on both sides made it clear that real accord was not near.

At one point the Soviets denounced President Eisenhower's "open skies" inspection plan as espionage, the view they have taken since he first presented it several years ago.

Soviet delegate Valerian A. Zorin opened the way for the secret diplomacy by setting up a series of working lunches and dinners with the Western delegates. This method has proved satisfactory to some extent in the past.

Moch said the West and the Communist bloc were agreed on six general points:

- There should be an international disarmament organization to supervise any arms-cut program.
- Some sort of control would be required at each stage of disarmament.
- Control must be continued even after each stage is carried out to prevent secret rearmament.
- All states should from the beginning declare to the international disarmament organization the number of their troops and arms.
- The number of arms eliminated and the men mustered out of service at each stage of disarmament must be controlled or measured.
- The necessary verification must be carried out by international controllers or inspectors.

Show Business

By DICK WILLIAMS

Romain Gary, the French consul-general in Los Angeles who writes best-sellers on exotic subjects and locales in his spare time, often complains to his agent, Irving Lazar, about the butchered Hollywood transcriptions of his works to the screen.

With a new book due, which he believes to be his best, Gary informed Lazar that he had decided not to sell this one to pictures.

Lazar was delighted. "Now we can get twice as much for it!" he enthused.

Labor Board Says Records Confidential

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia labor relations board told a Supreme Court judge Thursday it does not have to produce its confidential records.

Counsel for the board said it will give the court records used at a board hearing, but not those obtained by board investigators in the fight between two unions for control of Black Ball Ferry employees.

The point came up as the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway and Transport Workers (CBRT) opened its case before Mr. Justice Harry Sullivan to have an order of the board quashed.

The board refused to certify the CBRT Feb. 25 as bargaining agents for 135 Black Ball workers now represented by the independent Seafarers International Union.

Mr. Justice Sullivan said the board seems determined not to produce any other records used in arriving at its decision.

A. W. Mercer, appearing for the board, said that the board itself was in essence a court.

"In this case, they acted judicially and can be controlled by a superior court," Mr. Justice Sullivan said.

The SIU is asking the court to refuse the application of the CBRT. The latter is also claiming that the board did not follow the correct legal procedure in the case.

Last Act Best In Steady Play

By BERT BINNY

"A good, steady production in which the last act was the best."

This was adjudicator James Dean's description of "Zone," the French language drama presented last night in the Regional Drama Festival finals by La Troupe Moliere of Vancouver.

"These youngsters did an excellent job on a play originally written for professionals," said Mr. Dean. "They were brave to attempt it in the first place."

Suzanne Boisvert as Ciboulette gave a particularly strong portrayal in the last act, said the adjudicator. He also commended Elie Savoie as Tarzan and Bertrand Le Francois as Passe-Partout.

Daniel Timm as Tit-Noir was at his best in the second act although the adjudicator found that the play "sagged in the middle," act two.

Mr. Dean felt that the whole

Newfoundland Stand Makes Argue Boil

OTTAWA — CCF House leader Hazen Argue set off one of the angriest debates in the House of Commons in years when he bitterly condemned the federal government's refusal to disallow controversial Newfoundland labor legislation.

Argue moved a motion of non-confidence in the government over the issue. But it was easily defeated.

Argue charged that the Newfoundland Liberal government's legislation aimed at outlawing international unions in the province was "an interference with human rights and fundamental freedoms" and denied the right of Newfoundlanders to belong to legally-certified unions.

The government has tacked another month onto its winter works program under which it pays half the payroll costs of approved municipal works projects.

Labor Minister Michael Starr announced the extension to May 31, resulting from a request by the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities for more time to conclude their program of winter works.

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. — Condemned Caryl Chessman has increased his superior IQ by three points after 12 death row years of fighting off gas chamber execution. His score of 130 in an intelligence test ranks him among the top three per cent of the population in mental ability.

Ottawa Report

The Commons committee seeking irregularities in the operation of Montreal's Jacques Cartier toll bridge threw another assorted round of questions at National Harbor Board officials.

No particular progress was evident at the end of the sixth sitting of the railways committee despite pleas from some members and chairman Gordon Fraser (PC-Peterborough) for continuity in examination.

H. W. Herridge (CCF, Kootenay West) said that the practice of not paying unemployment insurance benefits to laid-off workers until their accumulated holiday pay is used up is "distinctly unfair."

Royal Suite Reserved In Venice

VENICE (AP) — Venice is shaping up as the major port of call on Princess Margaret's honeymoon cruise.

The honeymoon itinerary has not been announced, but the manager of Venice's Gritti Palace Hotel said a member of Queen Mother Elizabeth's household had tentatively reserved the hotel's royal suite for some time in May. He added that the exact date was not fixed, and he was not informed that the princess and her husband might use the suite.

Canvass April 25, 26 For University Fund

The residential canvass for the Greater Victoria for the Victoria University building fund will be held April 25 and 26, a campaign spokesman announced last night.

Mrs. Daryl Elford, well-known charity worker and convener of many women's committees in Victoria, has been appointed chairman of this section of the drive and is now seeking 2,400 volunteer canvassers from women's groups and PTAs.

Original plan was to have the residential canvass done by Victoria University students and their friends, but campaign officials said it was decided examinations are too close.

However, officials pointed out, students are anxious to play their part in fund-raising, and more than 1,000 of them will canvass approximately 1,700 homes in a special one-night blitz Wednesday.

Celebrations will start on the campus at 3 p.m. with official ground-breaking ceremonies, followed by a parade of 25 cars carrying banners and slogans through downtown Victoria, before a final briefing on the evening's canvassing.

Did Police Lure Native Crowd to Massacre?

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Rt. Rev. Ambrose Reeves, Anglican bishop of Johannesburg, said Thursday night the questioning of 100 Negroes wounded at Sharpeville Monday had turned up some "startling statements."

He told foreign reporters that the Negroes all said they had been told by white police before the shooting that a "big white boss" from Pretoria was going to address them at the police station.

The bishop said he was speaking as chairman of a committee of 14 liberal organizations, including groups formed to help non-whites.

Sharpeville was the scene of the heaviest casualties in Monday's rioting. The casualties were caused when white police opened fire on a crowd of 20,000 Negroes gathered at the police station.

Previous reports have said that the firing started after the Negroes besieged the station and began hurling stones. Official estimates put the number of Negroes killed at 66. Several wounded died later.

The bishop said lawyers questioned about 100 of the wounded at Paragwanath Hospital. He said Negroes began gathering in the township early Monday morning as instructed by Pan-Africanist leaders to protest against carrying identification passes.

But white police told them

also that a white man was coming to address them outside the police station. The Negroes were cautioned by their leaders against violence. The wounded all said they would not have permitted women and children to go to the police station if they had expected violence.

The first violence flared when a white policeman knocked a Negro down and kicked him. The wounded said the only stones they saw thrown were by children.

They said police drawn up in a line put guns to their shoulders. The only warning the Negroes had was from a Negro policeman behind the wire fence enclosing the police station. He ran forward and shouted: "Run—they are going to shoot you." As he shouted, police opened fire. Bishop Reeves said 100 men, 30 women and six children were in the hospital with wounds.

Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston is expected to announce the engineering feasibility of the $600,000,000 Peace River hydro today.

He left Victoria yesterday for Prince George—his briefcase bulging with the long-awaited Peace River feasibility report by B.C. water controller A. F. Paget.

PRINCE GEORGE

Observers point out that if the controversial Peace River Power Development Company scheme had failed to stand the scrutiny of provincial engineers and consultants the minister would not have flown to Prince George, the heart of his constituency, to release it.

He has flown there on two previous occasions for major announcements in connection with Rocky Mountain Trench development by the Axel Wenner-Gren interests and Peace River Power Development.

What is considered another strong indication that the engineering proposals for the Peace River have been vindicated during the government analysis of the company's nine-volume plan came in Port Alberni last week when B.C. Energy Board chairman Gordon Shrum strongly espoused

The B.C. government is expected to give short shrift to a federal offer to loan the province half the cost of Columbia River development at a premium interest rate.

Germany Growing 'Insolent'

PARIS (UPI)—Premier Nikita Khrushchev said yesterday that West German militarism was growing "insolent" and called for a non-aggression pact between the eastern and western power blocs to ease the threat of war.

Khrushchev was in rare good form as he beat the drums louder than ever for peaceful co-existence and renewed his attacks on German militarism and revenge-seeking which he called a major threat to peace.

Khrushchev spoke at a luncheon in the Paris city hall after a two-hour meeting in private with President Charles de Gaulle on such subjects as militarism, closer Soviet-French ties, the May 16 summit conference and France's close ties with West Germany.

Outside the city hall where President Eisenhower told a crowd of 50,000 last September "I love you all," a crowd of nearly the same size massed to meet Khrushchev. Many in the assemblage waved red flags, wore hammer and sickle buttons and shouted "Long live Khrushchev!"

WHETHER OR NOT

Confirming the federal offer in Vancouver yesterday, Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston refused to indicate whether or not the government would accept it.

Mr. Williston said last night that while the province had made no outright request for financial assistance the subject of financing the project had been discussed during talks between provincial and federal negotiating teams.

DECLINED TO SAY

He declined to say whether or not he found the federal offer disappointing but pointed out that if it could be said that the project in any way reflected to the general benefit of Canada then a grant would be in order.

He said it was "quite obvious" that the project would, in part, reflect to the benefit of the nation as a whole.

One of the financial problems discussed with federal officials, Mr. Williston said, concerned the carrying of indebtedness during "non-remunerative phases of the project."

Essentially the offer is for a straight loan of from $500,000,000 to $700,000,000 at

Macmillan Seeks Ike's OK On Russian Atom-Ban Plan

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan will fly to Washington Saturday seeking President Eisenhower's approval for the main features of Russia's proposed two-level ban on nuclear weapon tests.

A joint Anglo-American announcement of Macmillan's surprise visit followed intensive personal exchanges between the two leaders since last Saturday. It was then that the Russians tossed their latest plan for ending tests into the Geneva negotiations among the three nuclear powers.

Macdonald Park Soon Temporary Heliport

Macdonald Park in James Bay will become a temporary heliport soon.

And a permanent heliport may eventually be located close by.

City council yesterday approved allowing Okanagan Helicopters Ltd. to use the park as a base for testing a Sikorsky helicopter flying boat over the Vancouver-Victoria route in early April.

While council was talking about it, a map with the three blocks north of the park circled was passed around, and Mayor Percy Scarrab said,

"They think that's an excellent site for a permanent landing place."

AFRICA STUNNED BY MEETING BAN

'Massive Revolt' Feared Reason for Harsh Measures

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (CP)—Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd moved swiftly Thursday to meet what he told Parliament was a planned "massive revolt" of South Africa's 10,000,000 rigidly segregated native people. (See also Pages 3 and 28.)

The government banned for the next three months all public meetings, except church services, in major centres. The prohibition was announced after police raided offices and homes of native leaders connected with the African National Congress, the Pan-Africanist Congress, and other organizations frowned upon by the government.

DOCUMENTS SEIZED

Documents were seized and some leaders taken into custody for questioning.

The nation was stunned by the ban on public meetings, which went into immediate effect and will extend until June 30. The drastic measure followed the worst black-white violence South Africa has seen in recent years.

MORE THAN 12

Later word said the ban applied to meetings of more than 12 persons but that it would not affect a meeting scheduled by Verwoerd. Nationalist party headquarters said a big political rally set by Verwoerd for Saturday at Meyerton will go on as planned.

Mangaliso Sobukwe, president of the Pan-Africanist Congress, and most other top leaders of this aggressive organization which aims at full rights for Negroes by 1963, already were in custody.

ARMORED CARS

Police in armored cars patrolling Nyanga, near Cape town, reported "things are cooking up."

They said some patrols had been stoned and thousands of natives thronged the streets. Whites have been warned to stay out of the township.

At the trouble spot of Venderbijl Park, south of Johannesburg, white men and women lined up to apply for gun licenses.

Firearms have been selling at the rate of 100 a day since Monday's riots in which more than 70 were killed and 200 wounded.

90 NEGROES

In Capetown, about 90 Negroes gathered in front of the main police headquarters and demanded to be arrested because they were not carrying their passes.

Industries in some regions reported absenteeism still was a problem, though a slight back-to-work movement was noted.

The Archbishop of Cape town, Most Rev. Joost de Blank, champion of the Negro people, spoke out Thursday for the first time on the events of last Monday.

"While summoning all people of goodwill everywhere to pray for South Africa at this tragic moment in its history I am compelled to place on record that until the whole body of discriminatory legislation which weighs so heavily on certain sects of the population is withdrawn there can be no possibility of a peaceful future for the country."

SEATTLE (AP)—Funds requested to build Boeing Bomarc interceptor missiles in 1961 have been cut to $50,000,000 from $420,000,000 in view of the shift of the Soviet threat from manned bombers to rockets.

Bomarc missiles are designed to seek out and destroy planes, not ballistic missiles.

Southern Rhodesia

Cool Reception Given Macleod

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (Reuters)—Colonial Secretary Ian Macleod was met with suspicion Thursday as he arrived for a two-week visit to the Rhodesian Federation.

The Rhodesian Herald in an editorial said Macleod comes with the reputation of betraying the whites of Kenya and warned:

"The slightest sign of tipping the whites overboard will find him in the midst of a howling tempest."

A silent crowd of 300 greeted Macleod at the airport.

It was the second cool reception in one day for the 46-year-old colonial secretary, balanced between Negroes seeking self-rule and resentful whites afraid of a "sellout."

White settlers called him a "traitor" at Nairobi airport during a stopover in Kenya on his way to Salisbury.

Macleod's visit to this Central African Federation is scheduled to include talks on a new constitution for Nyasaland and tours of all three territories in the Federation.

The protectorates of Nyasaland and Northern Rhodesia are linked with the self-governing colony of Southern Rhodesia.

Macleod's arrival coincided with the release of 17 Negroes who were given 12-month prison terms during riots a year ago.

Two days ago, police used tear gas and nightsticks to disperse a crowd of stone-throwing Negroes in Nyasaland's southern province.

CHEMAINUS — North Cowichan council has approved in principle a request to hold soapbox races on Oak Street one Sunday a month for four months starting May 15.

Six Donkeys Sought

DUNCAN — Wanted: Six donkeys for a traditional English Easter race to be held here for the first time. "I don't know where we can get them, but if we do it will be one of the best benefit days held here," promised William Garrett-Petts, manager of a resort near here. Mr. Garrett-Petts said he hopes to get "personalities" to ride the donkeys in a special 100-yard race. Money raised will be donated to the Retarded Children's Association here, he said. The races, he said, are one of the most popular — and humorous — methods of raising money in England and Europe. People with donkeys they would donate for the day are asked to call Mr. Garrett-Petts at Duncan 586 F.

Ailing Mine May Get Shot in Arm Soon

Vancouver Island's last, ailing coal mine may get a shot-in-the-arm from the provincial government but it won't get a subsidy, Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan said yesterday. His statement came only a short time after senior employees of Canadian Collieries' T'Sable River mine near Cumberland visited his office seeking assistance. Government help may come through a contract to supply coal to Essondale Mental Hospital.

Stanley Lawrence, manager of the mine, has formed Comox Colliery to operate the property and has arranged to pay royalties to the owners. Three thousand miners once worked the Cumberland coal fields where only 200 are employed today.

This force will probably be cut to 80 or 90 if Comox Colliery takes over the operation. The government should be "fair" with the band and act without "prejudice" to see that the people get back some Police witnesses claimed the hand motions with a flag could not be misconstrued.

A 4½-per-cent across-the-board wage increase for the city's outside staff and a 4 per cent across-the-board wage increase for the inside staff were approved yesterday by the city council after discussion in a closed committee.

The other two major employee groups, the policemen and firemen, are now awaiting awards of a conciliation board.

The inside and outside staff wage increases will add about $47,000 this year to the city's wage bill as it affects taxes, City Comptroller Dennis Young estimated last night.

Also approved were four weeks' vacation for outside staff members 60 years old or more and with 15 or more years of service, and four weeks' vacation for inside staff members after 20 years of service.

Thetis Fight Over Easement Given

Council Will Accept Durrance Lake Deal

By R. O. MARRION

The long fight over a B.C. Electric power line right-of-way at Thetis Lake is over.

City council voted yesterday to accept the company's offer of 250 acres of Durrance Lake property and $5,200 for 104 acres of Thetis Lake property. In addition, the city will receive an easement over the whole 104 acres, guaranteeing public access.

BEST TERMS
This last provision apparently was gained in a conference yesterday between Aldermen M. H. Mooney and Austin Curtis and the company. The aldermen had been delegated to seek the company's best possible terms.

In the end, Ald. Mooney alone held out against accepting the offer, and he—accused of wanting council to dilly-dally—wanted the proposal given further consideration.

By dilly-dallying, he said, council had received a much better proposition than "26 acres for $5,200 for ever and a day."

CITY WATERSHED
Majority of council appeared to presume in debate that Durrance Lake will not be dedicated as a park, but will be treated as a city watershed in order to avoid taxation by the province.

Ald. Curtis proposed acceptance of the offer. He said the company was a public utility, required to produce the power needed by the people of the area, and "should have equal consideration with the people who oppose it."

Aldermen Mooney and Rev. J. L. W. McLean held the delegation should have reported back to the public works and parks committee, which sent it, not to council.

Ald. McLean said undue haste seemed to be advocated. Mayor Percy Scarratt said, however, that the B.C. Electric had said two weeks ago the need was urgent, and had been promised a decision yesterday.

PRESS CRITICIZED
Ald. McLean also criticized the press for obtaining B.C. Electric opinion on the committee seeking better terms. The newspapers, he said, were acting out of turn, and "stepping where they have no business to go." He thought the press might have prejudiced the city's case by "publicizing it in advance."

Aldermen Arthur D. O'Neil and Hugh Ramsay were willing to accept the B.C. Electric offer with Durrance Lake excluded.

Cluster Lights Glaring?

Victoria's cluster lights produce a blinding effect, street-lighting superintendent Kenneth Reid said yesterday, and "any bus driver in town will tell you he's scared to death."

Mr. Reid made the statement in answer to public works chairman Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, who, maintaining that the cluster lights should be kept, suggested that they could be made brighter.

No factor is as detrimental to visibility as glare, Mr. Reid said, and the cluster lights, at low level, produce glare.

"They're right in our visual axis," he said.

Did Police Lure Native Crowd to Massacre?

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Rt. Rev. Ambrose Reeves, Anglican bishop of Johannesburg, said Thursday night the questioning of 100 Negroes wounded at Sharpeville Monday had turned up some "startling statements."

He told foreign reporters that the Negroes all said they had been told by white police before the shooting that a "big white boss" from Pretoria was going to address them at the police station.

The bishop said he was speaking as chairman of a committee of 14 liberal organizations, including groups formed to help non-whites. Sharpeville was the scene of the heaviest casualties in Monday's rioting. The casualties were caused when white police opened fire on a crowd of 20,000 Negroes gathered at the police station.

Previous reports have said that the firing started after the Negroes besieged the station and began hurling stones. Official estimates put the number of Negroes killed at 66. Several wounded died later. The bishop said lawyers questioned about 100 of the wounded at Paragwanath Hospital. He said Negroes began gathering in the township early Monday morning as instructed by Pan-Africanist leaders to protest against carrying identification passes. But white police told them also that a white man was coming to address them outside the police station. The Negroes were cautioned by their leaders against violence. The wounded all said they would not have permitted women and children to go to the police station if they had expected violence. The first violence flared when a white policeman knocked a Negro down and kicked him. The wounded said the only stones they saw thrown were by children. They said police drawn up in a line put guns to their shoulders. The only warning the Negroes had was from a Negro policeman behind the wire fence enclosing the police station. He ran forward and shouted: "Run—they are going to shoot you." As he shouted, police opened fire. Bishop Reeves said 100 men, 30 women and six children were in the hospital with wounds.

Khrushchev was in rare good form as he beat the drums louder than ever for peaceful co-existence and renewed his attacks on German militarism and revenge-seeking which he called a major threat to peace. Khrushchev spoke at a luncheon in the Paris city hall after a two-hour meeting in private with President Charles de Gaulle on such subjects as militarism, Soviet-French ties, the May 16 summit conference and France's close ties with West Germany.

Outside the city hall where President Eisenhower told a crowd of 50,000 last September "I love you all," a crowd of nearly the same size massed to meet Khrushchev. Many in the assemblage waved red flags, wore hammers and sickle buttons and shouted "Long live Khrushchev!"

Macmillan Seeks Ike's OK On Russian Atom-Ban Plan

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan will fly to Washington Saturday seeking President Eisenhower's approval for the main features of his proposed two-level ban on nuclear weapon tests.

A joint Anglo-American announcement of Macmillan's surprise visit followed intense personal exchanges between the two leaders since last Saturday. It was then that the Russians tossed their latest plan for ending tests into the Geneva negotiations among the three nuclear powers.

Broadly, Macmillan favors Anglo-American acceptance of the essential points in the Soviet proposal.

The Eisenhower administration, on the other hand, has a number of reservations which the president evidently wants to discuss personally with Macmillan in order to achieve a united front when the Geneva talks are resumed.

The Soviet plan envisages a treaty banning forever nuclear weapons tests on the earth's surface, at sea and in space where effective controls can be applied. Eisenhower had put forward a similar proposal last Feb. 11 which Moscow then scorned.

Macdonald Park Soon Temporary Heliport

Macdonald Park in James Sikorsky helicopter flying boat Bay will become a temporary heliport, soon.

While council was talking about it, a map with the three blocks north of the park circled was passed around and approved allowing Okanagan Helicopters Ltd. to use the tent site for a permanent landing park as a base for testing a

Fear of 'Massive Revolt' Reason for Harsh Measures

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (CP)—Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd moved swiftly Thursday to meet what he told Parliament was a planned "massive revolt" of South Africa's 10,000,000 rigidly segregated native people. (See also Pages 3 and 28.)

The government banned for the next three months all public meetings, except church services, in major centres. The prohibition was announced after police raided offices and homes of native leaders connected with the African National Congress, the Pan-Africanist Congress, and other organizations frowned upon by the government.

DOCUMENTS SEIZED

Documents were seized and some leaders taken into custody for questioning.

The nation was stunned by the ban on public meetings, which went into immediate effect and will extend until June 30. The drastic measure followed the worst black-white violence South Africa has seen in recent years.

MORE THAN 12

Later word said the ban applied to meetings of more than 12 persons but that it would not affect a meeting scheduled by Verwoerd. Nationalist party headquarters said a big political rally set by Verwoerd for Saturday at Meyerton will go on as planned.

Mangaliso Sobukwe, president of the Pan-Africanist Congress, and most other top leaders of this aggressive organization which aims at full rights for Negroes by 1963, already were in custody.

ARMORED CARS

Police in armored cars patrolling Nyanga, near Cape town, reported "things are cooking up."

They said some patrols had been stoned and thousands of natives thronged the streets. Whites have been warned to stay out of the township.

At the trouble spot of Venderbijl Park, south of Johannesburg, white men and women lined up to apply for gun licences.

Firearms have been selling at the rate of 100 a day since Monday's riots in which more than 70 were killed and 200 wounded.

90 NEGROES

In Capetown, about 90 Negroes gathered in front of the main police headquarters and demanded to be arrested because they were not carrying their passes.

Industries in some regions reported absenteeism still was a problem, though a slight park-to-work movement was noted.

The Archbishop of Capetown, Most Rev. Joost de Blank, champion of the Negro people, spoke out Thursday for the first time on the events of last Monday.

"While summoning all people of goodwill everywhere to pray for South Africa at this tragic moment in its history I am compelled to place on record that until the whole body of discriminatory legislation which weighs so heavily on certain sects of the population is withdrawn there can be no possibility of a peaceful future for the country."

SEATTLE (AP) — Funds requested to build Boeing Bomarc interceptor missiles in 1961 have been cut to $50,000,000 from $120,000,000 in view of the shift of the Soviet threat from manned bombers to rockets.

Bomarc missiles are designed to seek out and destroy planes, not ballistic missiles.

The Rhodesian Herald in an editorial said Macleod comes with the reputation of betraying the whites of Kenya and warned:

"The slightest sign of tipping the whites overboard will find him in the midst of a howling tempest."

A silent crowd of 300 greeted Macleod at the airport.

It was the second cool reception in one day for the 46-year-old colonial secretary, balanced between Negroes seeking self-rule and resentful whites afraid of a "sellout."

White settlers called him a "traitor" at Nairobi airport during a stopover in Kenya on his way to Salisbury.

Macleod's visit to this Central African Federation is scheduled to include talks on a new constitution for Nyasaland and tours of all three territories in the Federation.

The protectorates of Nyasaland and Northern Rhodesia are linked with the self-governing colony of Southern Rhodesia.

Macleod's arrival coincided with the release of 17 Negroes who were given 12-month prison terms during riots a year ago.

Two days ago, police used tear gas and nightsticks to disperse a crowd of stone-throwing Negroes in Nyasaland's southern province.
